VOTES TODAY ON TRADE TREATIES

BREAK GROUND MONDAY FOR NEW STATION

Officials of Pennsy Railroad, City and C. of C. to Take Part in Ceremony.

PLATFORM FIRST PROJECT

Erection of Waiting Room Also Included in Early Work on $75,000 Program.

Ground will be broken and work started on the $75,000 modernization of the Pennsylvania railroad station Monday morning.

This announcement was made today by James E. Young, general freight and passenger agent for the railroad in Mansfield.

Officials of the city, Chamber of Commerce and the railroad will take part in the ceremony, scheduled for 9 a. m.

First work on the program, which calls for extensive changes in the property, will be the construction of the new platform and waiting room for westbound traffic, Young said.

Subway Work To Follow.

A side track will be torn out to make way for the new westbound platform, and as soon as the sidetrack is removed, work will be started on the subway, which will lead from the station to the westbound platform

The subway will be six feet wide and 58 feet long, leading to a lighted loading platform, shelter and enclosed waiting room. The platform will be 20 feet wide, 650 feet long, with a bituminous surface. The shelter will be 100 feet long and the waiting room 40 feet in length.

In addition, a 125-foot freight loading platform will be constructed.

When this phase of the renovation is completed, two westbound tracks will be served by the platform, and passengers boarding or leaving westbound trains will no longer have to walk across open tracks from the station.

The second phase of the modernizing program calls for additions to and complete renovation of the present station building.

The modernization program was announced last Dec. 20, to a Chamber of Commerce committee who worked for years to bring about improvement of railroad station facilities here. Shortly after the Pennsylvania announced it would spend $75,000 on its station here—which the Erie also uses—the Baltimore and Ohio announced it would renovate its dilapidated station with an expenditure of $8,000.

Sailor Nick Gets Lost But Police Come to Rescue

This is a story about Nick the sailor.

Nick's home is in Greece and he rides the "briney" on a Greek steamship. When the boat docked in New York after a harrowing Atlantic crossing several days ago, Nick decided on a shore leave to visit relatives in Mansfield.

Last night while Nick was alone in his relative's home, he decided he wanted cigarets and headed for a store several blocks away.

But Nick had never been in Mansfield before and in his wanderings he got lost and couldn't find his way back to his sister's home.

He stopped several persons on the street to inquire the whereabouts of the residence but they passed on because they couldn't understand his language. Nick only knows a half a dozen English words.

So, when Patrolmen John Steel and Glen Adams found Nick after a resident reported there was a prowler around his house, they started to question him. But they got nowhere because they couldn't understand Greek.

They did get one word that Nick kept repeating. That was his brother-in-law's last name. So they took Nick to his relative's place of business and the story was told—through the brother-in-law who acted as an interpreter.

BUDGET MEALS

New York Fair Offers Five And Ten Cent Restaurant.

NEW YORK—(INS)—A "5 and 10 cent restaurant" for the World's fair of 1940 was announced today by Harvey D. Gibson, board chairman. Sandwiches and vegetables will be featured at 5 cents and meat dishes will be 10 cents. "Eat within your budget" will be the 1940 fair motto.

Murdered Co-ed

LACK CLUES IN CO-ED'S DEATH

Investigators Appeal to 6,000 Pennsylvania Students 'Not to Shield Anyone.'

(By Associated Press)

STATE COLLEGE, Pa.—Lacking a definite clue to the sex-mad killer of a 17-year-old freshman co-ed, investigators today appealed to Pennsylvania State College's 6,000 students to report immediately "any suspicious persons" and especially "not to shield anyone."

Rumors ran rampant, transforming this usually calm community into a center of great excitement, but Burgess Wilbur Leitzell declared "there's not a single worthy clue to the identity of the slayer."

State and borough police joined in the hunt for what they described as a sex fiend who criminally attacked brown-haired Rachel Hutchinson Taylor, hammered her to death and dumped the battered body in the driveway of a consolidated school three miles outside town.

Representatives of some 50 fraternities on the magnificient state college campus were first to be called into the quickly made up investigation headquarters to hear Leitzell's plea that they report suspicious persons.

Coroner Charles Schekler found Miss Taylor died of a crushed

9 MEN DROWNED

Die When Pilot Boat, Steamer Collide Off Halifax.

HALIFAX, N. S.—(U.P.)—Nine men were drowned early today when the pilot boat Hebridean was cut down by an inbound steamer from Newfoundland off the mouth of the harbor.

The pilot boat went to the bottom immediately and no trace of wreckage was found by rescue craft.

Only seven men who had been on the auxiliary schooner used as a floating headquarters for the pilotage service were saved.

Port authorities started an investigation into the first fatal accident involving pilots since the last war when a warship cut down a service tug.

The cause of today's crash was a mystery.

Battle of Census Started Quietly Enough, But It'll Last for Years

Twelve New Hampshire Voters at Bottom of Whole Uproar.

(Editor's Note: The first of a series of three stories by an Associated Press writer on what this "battle of the census" is all about.)

By MORGAN M. BEATTY,
(AP Feature Service Writer)

WASHINGTON—Twelve New Hampshire voters armed themselves with 36 cents in stamps and an irresistible urge to write their congressman. And the 1940 Battle of the Census was on!

Thousands of privates enlisted for the duration, on both sides. Firing became—and still is—general.

Those 12 New Hampshire voters may yet occupy a place in political history not unlike the niche in world history of that Serbian youth who took a few pot-shots at an archduke's car, and touched off the World war.

For, in the long run, the Battle of the Census will be a real battle.

Morgan Beatty

What those New Hampshire voters started was a curtain raising skirmish. The real battle to come—a struggle for survival of the fittest politician—may last for months, perhaps a couple of years. And before it's over political blood will flow in many a state in the union.

Funny what a few voters with postage stamps and an urge can do in a democracy!

Tobey Got An Idea.

Bald, spectabled Senator Charles Wilham Tobey of New Hampshire got the letters—and an idea. Hadn't somebody in upstate New York protested against income questions in the census?

If 12 of his constituents didn't like them either, maybe he had something here.

He'd see, so he asked the census bureau not to bother his voters with questions about their private affairs, like incomes, divorces, physical fitness to work, and whatnot, or at least let them answer to Washington by mail.

"To late to change our setup," said the census bureau.

"Oh, yeah?" retorted Tobey, making a bee-line for the nearest microphone with a nation-wide hookup.

NAMES 59 FOR COUNTY CENSUS

District Director to Appoint 6 More Before Decennial Count Begins Tuesday.

Don Harper, 17th congressional district census director, today announced the appointment of 59 persons to take up the 16th decennial census in Richland county.

Harper said the list constituted the major portion of the enumerators to be named but that six more would be added before Tuesday when the census is scheduled to start.

The appointments include 31 persons who will enumerate the city of Mansfield and 28 who will cover the rest of the county. They are part of the 271 numerators who will launch the census taking task at 9 a. m. Tuesday in the six-county 17th congressional district.

The list of appointees revealed that most of the enumerators are active Democrats who received the jobs as part of the patronage distributed by the party in power in Washington.

The census job, which will be started here along with the rest of the nation, is expected to be completed in two weeks. The rural population count, including a complete farm schedule, will take a month.

Names of the county enumerators appointed to date are:

MANSFIELD—William F. Bulger, 344 Park avenue west; Sylvia Coffman, 162 Lind avenue; Blanche Burger, 70 Arthur avenue; Ruth Kahl, 234 South Mulberry street; Charles F.

FATHER ADMITS KILLING BABY

'Witches Made Me Do It,' He Tells Pennsylvania Police.

PHILADELPHIA—(INS)—Cracking under the strain of persistent questioning, Michael Menichella confessed today that he killed his infant daughter with a butcher knife because the "witches made me," detectives said.

The purported confession of the 40-year-old relief worker who for 24 hours had insisted stoutly that "witches and a big black dog" were responsible for the murder of his 16-day-old daughter, Beatrice, was disclosed by Detective Sergeant Daniel Cronin.

The child's body—her head almost severed—was found in a sack in a coal bin of her home by patrolmen shortly after the Menichellas reported the baby kidnaped.

BLAST KILLS 4

Portsmouth Father, 3 Children Die in Explosion, Fire.

PORTSMOUTH—(AP)—A father and three children perished in an explosion and fire that swept their rural home 20 miles northeast of here today.

The victims were Raymond Leedy, about 35, a daughter and two sons, all under six.

Mrs. Leedy and another daughter, Delores, 7, were burned so severely that attaches in a hospital here did not expect them to recover.

The fire followed an explosion that occurred during building of a fire in the kitchen stove.

BULLETIN

NAPOLEONVILLE, La.—(AP)—The Louisiana Light and Power company received reports here today that a tornado had struck the small settlement of Pierre Park, 20 miles distant, and killed about thirty persons.

A. J. Howard, company official, said he received advices that the tornado struck about 11 a. m. and demolished the church and many homes in the village, inhabited by fishermen and trappers.

The reports said that "at least thirty persons were killed," and some hurt.

Doctors and nurses sped to the village from here and from Donaldsonville, and ambulances were sent from neighboring towns.

The population of Pierre Park is about 600.

TURN RED SHIPS OVER TO FRANCE

British-Held Soviet Vessels Given to French in New Contraband Move.

(By Associated Press)

LONDON—(AP)—Great Britain announced today that she was turning over to French authorities in the orient two Soviet Russian freighters suspected of carrying contraband for Germany.

They had been stopped by the British navy in far eastern waters and taken to British Hongkong for contraband examination. One was en route from San Francisco to Vladivostok with a cargo of metals when seized.

The 2,492-ton Selenga was taken to Hongkong Jan. 13 for examination of her cargo of tin, Antimony and Wolfram (Tungsten) and "er agents there had been quoted yesterday as saying she was freed with her cargo intact.

The other Russian merchantman, the 3,972-ton Vladimir Mayakovsky, was intercepted by a British naval vessel near Japan while en route from the United States to Vladivostok, Russian Pacific Ocean port.

STILL LAGGING

1940 Tag Sale Fails To Spurt With Deadline Near.

Sale of 1940 auto tags continued to lag yesterday when only 507 were sold as compared with 555 sold on the same date last year. The sale of passenger plates up to this morning was 7,120.

The deadline for old tags is midnight Sunday and there will be no extension of time, according to Cy Wallace, state registrar of motor vehicles. The deputy registrar's office in the auto club will close at 8 p. m. Saturday. Lee Henry, deputy registrar at Olivesburg, said his office would be open until 10 p. m. today and tomorrow.

TIPSY GHOST

Thought It Would Be Good Place to Get Out of Rain.

PENSACOLA, Fla.—(AP)—Prince Morris, a Negro mortician, opened the door of his ambulance, but slammed it hard after one quick look.

He beat a path to police headquarters and breathlessly explained he had seen the form of a white person in his ambulance stretcher that should have been empty. Investigating officers found a slightly tipsy gent who explained: "It looked like a pretty good place to get out of the rain."

Mystery Cloak Drawn Closer On Welles' Report on Europe

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON—(AP)—President Roosevelt called Under-secretary of State Sumner Welles to the White House again today to continue his secret report on conditions in Europe.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—The return of Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles increased rather than dispelled today the mystery about what he learned during his tour of European capitals.

The White House, determined to keep Welles' report to President Roosevelt secret, indicated that it might never be made public. Observers saw only one ray of hope for any immediate indication of what Welles has told the president—the president's course of action in the near future in domestic and foreign policies.

Welles returned to the capital late yesterday and, after a brief conference with his immediate superior, Secretary of State Cordell Hull, conferred for 95 minutes with Mr. Roosevelt and Hull. No announcement followed the conference.

The only announcement preceding it was a warning from White House Secretary Stephen T. Early to reporters against "writing yourself out on a limb."

The White House indicated that Welles would not see the president again before Mr. Roosevelt leaves, possibly this week-end, for a short vacation at Warm Springs, Ga.

As soon as Welles had returned, several peace organizations called upon him and the president to bring about an immediate armistice and a negotiated peace among European belligerents.

DONAHEY SEEN 'KEY' TO FATE OF HOT ISSUE

Friends, Foes of Reciprocal Agreements Admit Ohioan Can Decide Outcome.

AGREE ON ROLL CALL

Both Factions Approve 4 P. M. Today as Time to Finish Debate for Showdown.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—Tall, greyhaired Vic Donahey of Ohio, who keeps his own counsel and is retiring from politics this summer, was "spotted" today as perhaps the key man in the impending senate votes on the Roosevelt-Hull reciprocal trade treaty program.

So evenly were opposing lines drawn that both sides admitted Senator Donahey, a Democrat, might cast the deciding ballot on the Pittman amendment requiring senate ratification of the trade pacts. Neither side professed to know the Ohio senator's decision.

A unanimous consent agreement scheduled the roll-call on the Pittman amendment at 4 p. m.

Adoption of the ratification measure would effectively negate the entire treaty program, if the house concurred. Its rejection would point to unhampered adoption of the pending resolution to extend the treaty law three years beyond its June 12 expiration date. The house already has approved extension.

Two polls regarded as "informed" circulated the senate as the vital vote neared. With seven senators out of the running because of absence or pairs, one poll gave the administration a 46-43 victory over the ratification backer; the other placed the count at 44-44, with Donahey in the middle and still uncommitted.

This situation, anticipating 89 votes, precluded the possibility of a tie which would permit Vice President Garner to cast his vote, but even this was not "nailed down." Sen. Andrews (D., Fla.) not only was absent, but couldn't be located by telephone. Some members said he might be en route to Washington to cast his ballot.

Administration forces predicted they would win. Ratification advocates reluctantly admitted it "looked bad" for them, but Senate Republican Leader McNary warned: "We still have a fighting chance to win on the ratification amendment."

The ratification faction was cheered by several announcements of support, one coming from Virginia's peppery octogenarian, Sen. Carter Glass.

SET UP COUNT

Transient Census to Take in Hotels, 'Flop Joints.'

WASHINGTON—(INS)—The census bureau today set aside April 8 as the day on which the nation's transient population will be counted.

Enumerators will call at hotels, tourist camps, one-night lodging houses, and even "flop joints," to insure accuracy of the 1940 census.

No attempt will be made to enumerate persons riding on trains, ships, buses or other modes of transportation on this day. The census bureau said that the number of travelers is small in relation to the entire population and the majority of these will be counted when the enumerator calls at their homes.

2 New Cases of Child Molesting Reported

52-Year-Old Man Accused of Chasing Girl; Youth, 21, Sought for Holding Boy, 13, Captive In Room.

Two new cases of child molesting were being investigated today by police and sheriff's deputies. Both reported last night, they were the second and third to be called to the attention of authorities in the past week.

Deputies jailed a 52-year-old man last night who was accused of chasing a 13-year-old girl in Springfield township while police sought another man who enticed a 13-year-old boy into his room and held him captive for half an hour.

Arraigned in municipal court this morning on charges of trespassing, a man booked as Charles Zybac, who said his home was in Steubenville, pleaded guilty and was fined $5 and costs.

Unable to pay the fine he was taken back to jail to "sit it out" while his fingerprints are sent to the federal bureau of investigation in Washington for identification.

Zybac was captured about 10 p. m. yesterday on Millsborough road by E. R. Gillion, the girl's father, and a neighbor, H. A. Danals and brought to the sheriff's office.

They said they started their search for the man after Gillion's daughter came home at 4 p. m. and reported she had been chased by a man as she alighted from a school bus near her home.

Danals said he recalled seeing the man in an Ontario tavern earlier in the afternoon and that he had been ordered out of the establishment by the proprietor when he acted "suspicious."

Deputies said the man who was able to talk little English, answered their questions incoherently. Asked why he was chasing the girl, he replied that he was chasing a "green dog."

Meanwhile police sought a young man who lured a 13-year-

PAYS WITH LIFE

Minister Dies in Chair for Plotting Daughter's Death.

TRENTON, N. J.—(AP)—Rev. Walter Dworecki, 43-year-old Polish Baptist minister and first clergyman to be executed in New Jersey's electric chair, stalked to his death last night mumbling "Holy Father, save my soul."

The Camden pastor, condemned for scheming the strangulation murder of his daughter Wanda, 18, so he could collect her life insurance, was pronounced dead six minutes after he entered the tiny death chamber preceded by a chaplain.

Clemency pleas by the pastor were denied twice by the state court of pardons during the last nine days.

Dworecki was convicted last Oct. 5 of hiring Petter Showchuk, 21-year-old circus roustabout and former boarder in the Dworecki home, for a small fee to kill the girl so the father could collect between $5,000 and $6,000 insurance.

Woman Asks $16,000 In Baby Mix-up Case.

LOS ANGELES—(AP)—Eighteen months after she gave birth to a son in a hospital here, Mrs. Frances Mahoney, 19, declares she still does not know which of three infants she claims were given her to nurse is her son.

She is suing the Lutheran Hospital society of Southern California for $16,000 damages as a result of the alleged baby mix-up.

It May Be Only a Sample But Ain't Springtime Wonderful?

One swallow may not make a spring and one day of warm sunshine and balmy air may not do the trick—but, boy! It is a grand sample.

There may be snow next week or the next—one of the prognosticators said there would be some snow in April—and there may be freezing temperatures, but today was a honey.

And all because the temperature shot up to 65 at noon, the sun warmed the trees into a stirring of new life and the robins pushed out their red "weskits" and sang lustily as they swayed with every passing breeze.

This was the first day of real spring despite the fact that the calender announced it 10 days ago. The official debut of the new season was accompanied by near-zero weather and snow in many parts of the country.

About the only herald of spring has been the sugar trees which started their flow of sap several weeks ago.

The unseasonably late cold weather has played havoc with the fishing industry along the lake, dispatches said today, with the loss set at close to a quarter of a million dollars.

Ice sheets along the shore will keep the fishing boats and nets out of service until at least April 15, it is believed.

The weather forecast calls for lower temperatures and fair weather tonight and tomorrow.

Caution!

CHAPTER II.

His brown eyes searched hers. "You didn't want to come out, did you?"

She shook her head. "I did it only to please them. They both wanted to celebrate and since it was in my honor I couldn't very well refuse."

He nodded his understanding. "You don't refuse anything to people you like, do you Elaine?"

"Of course not," she told him. "If we didn't do things for people we liked this world would be a terrible place."

His lips quirked into a wistful smile. "A person who has you as his friend is lucky."

His manner of speaking touched her and Elaine laid a hand lightly on his. She looked straight into his eyes. "You're my friend, Tony."

"Thanks," he said simply. "But you really shouldn't bother about me, Elaine. You see, I'm as irresponsible as Betty only I didn't get way with my prank."

"You're still going to be my friend." Elaine told him with quiet determination. "Prank or no prank, I like you, and besides, Jack Douglas' death wasn't your fault."

"I guess we all should have had better sense," Tony muttered, half to himself. "But when a bunch of students decides to haze some one, they just go ahead and do it. We took Douglas about a half mile out on the lake and threw him overboard. The idea didn't seem dangerous to us because he was the best swimmer in the school. But—well, something happened to him as he was swimming towards shore, a cramp, most likely."

* * *

Before Elaine could think of a word to say the music stopped and Tony led her back to the table. "But—but we shouldn't talk about such things tonight. This is supposed to be a party;"

"That's what Betty thinks," Clara said casually as they reached the table. "She's made a good start already. She drank mine when I wasn't looking and ordered another round of Scotch."

Both glasses were empty again. Elaine gasped as she sat down. "But we weren't gone long enough for her. . . ." Her words trailed away as she looked at Betty and as she observed her chum's overbright eyes and deeply flushed cheeks she felt dismay clutch at her heart. They'd never be able to get her back up the fire escape.

"'Nother Scotch-n-soda!" Betty demanded, banging her fist on the table. She looked irritably at Tony. "What kind of gen'lman are you to let a lady have nothin' to drink?"

"You've had more than enough," Tony said flatly.

Betty pouted. "Only had two—three. Clara wouldn't drink hers until you came and I didn't wanna see a drink go to waste. So I . . ."

"So you stole mine," Clara interrupted.

"Stole?" Betty pondered over this a moment and nodded her head. She rose unsteadily to her feet. "Betty stole your drink; Betty get you 'nother."

Elaine had been half expecting something of the sort and she gripped her friend's arm before she could take a step. "Oh, no, you don't. You're going to get out into the car before you—before you can't!"

"Never pass out," Betty argued. "Best little drinker in the. . . ." Her words trailed away as she sank back into the chair and rested her head on the table.

Elaine turned anxiously to Tony, cheeks burning as she realized their table was the center of attention. "What will we do with her? She can't get back to her room like that."

Tony dropped a bill on the table, then walked around and helped Betty from the chair. Slipping one arm about her waist, he started towards the door. "We'll take her to my sister's place for the night. She'll be all right there and we'll have her back at the school before she's missed."

His calm assurance made Elaine feel ashamed of her fright and she followed him out of the restaurant, thankful for his presence. If only everything went off as smoothly as he said. They couldn't afford to get mixed up in any trouble now. She least of all. Mrs. Reardon had long sought a chance to break up her marriage to Eric and a scandal such as this would serve her purpose admirably.

She opened the door of the car as Tony and Clara assisted Betty down the restaurant steps. Despite Betty's struggles, it was but the work of a moment to get her onto the seat. Panting, Elaine slipped into the rear of the car with Clara.

"All set?" Tony asked, taking a final look around. He smiled at Elaine. "Nothing to worry about now."

"Sure, everything will be fine," Clara added, realizing what a scandal would mean. "You didn't touch a drop so even if we are caught they can't say much to you."

Aware they were both trying to cheer her up, Elaine forced a smile to her lips as the car sped down the road.

"I wanna drive!" Betty suddenly came to life on the front seat. She reached over Tony's arms and grasped the steering wheel. "I wanna drive!"

Elaine sprang from the seat to Tony's aid as the car lurched over towards the middle of the road.

"Let go!" she commanded sharply, tugging futilely at Betty's arm, trying to break her grip on the wheel. Betty only laughed and clung more tightly. The car was zigzagging all over the road now as Tony reached out to help Elaine, but even as he did so they struck a bump in the road and Elaine fell back on the seat.

"Tony, stop the car!" Clara leaped from the seat to aid him. From her position on the seat, Elaine could see the fear suddenly mount to her roommate's eyes. Her body turned cold as she half regained her feet and looked out the window. There, speeding towards them from out a dark intersection was a huge truck. Tony was battling desperately with Betty now, trying to pull the brake. But even as his hand moved towards it Elaine knew that he would be too late.

A horrible scream tore from Betty's throat as the truck smashed into the sedan and hurled it to the side of the road. The impact sent Elaine to the floor and she felt sudden pain slash across her back. Betty was screaming now, louder than ever. She must be hurt—badly hurt. Through a haze of pain Elaine tried to arise, tried desperately to go to Betty's assistance. And then, even as she moved, she could feel herself sink back to the floor, orange and red lights bursting in her aching head. She must get up—Betty needed her—she must. . . .

Elaine Warburton was unconscious when the truck driver and his horrified helper forced the car door open and dragged the moaning Betty from the seat.

* * *

It pleased Mrs. Eric Montague Reardon to breakfast leisurely at eight o'clock in her garden because there was something so definitely aristocratic in this practice. But on this particular lovely June morning she hastened through her orange juice, coffee, and minute squares of toast. She placed her coffee cup gently upon its saucer and turned to the letter she was writing Elaine.

A prim woman of fifty of handsome aristocratic visage, with silvery hair gleaming in the sun, she skimmed critically through those portions of the letter she had already written, and as she read thin lips formed an equally thin smile. The letter was good, she was expressing herself well, indeed; Elaine should prove most grateful. It wasn't every day that a woman of her social position wrote such a lovely letter to a former waitress. But then, she thought, the smile fading from her lips, it wasn't every day that a woman of her position had to write such a letter.

The thought distressed her, but after considering it for a brief instant she discarded it as being unworthy of her. She was, essentially, a fair woman, and since this was so Elaine was entitled to as sweet a letter as she could write. Her promise to the girl had been that if her final year at the Fairview School for Girls had proved her to be the type of young lady she wanted Eric to marry, she would withdraw her objections to the match. Elaine had passed the test, her conduct at the school had been exemplary, her scholastic achievements far above normal. Indeed, everything about the girl indicated she would become a member of the family of whom all could be proud.

As she signed the letter, a shadow passed over the paper and an annoyed frown drifted across Mrs. Reardon's aristocratic countenance. She gleamed up and, observing her companion secretary standing in respectful silence a few feet away, she smiled. One must always smile at servants.

"I hope I haven't kept you waiting too long, Helen," she said graciously. "I became so engrossed in this letter that I wasn't aware of your presence."

"Oh, you didn't keep me waiting, Mrs. Reardon. "I've been here only a few seconds."

* * *

Helen Wortorski walked over to the breakfast table and began to place the dishes on the tray. A tall, golden-haired, blue eyed girl clad in an attractive orchid linen dress cut along smartly tailored lines, she worked swiftly yet quietly, darting an occasional glance at her employer's face. She was wondering if Mrs. Reardon had read about Elaine's accident, wondering too if she would call an angry halt to the wedding plans and thus give her another chance at Eric. But no hint of what she was thinking could be observed on her carefully composed face.

"I telephoned Mr. Hardy" she said after a silent moment. "He said he'll be over some time this morning."

Mrs. Reardon clapped her hands excitedly. "Oh, I'm so anxious to see Eric's face when he learns that I am giving him the check for a wedding present. Helen, are you sure he doesn't suspect anything?"

Helen shook her head. "He's so excited about the marriage and the plane trip he wouldn't even know if the house was on fire."

Battle for Crowns In JAC Tournament At Mansfield High

Five Mansfield Youths Among Group Fighting for Amateur Honors on Tonight's Program.

MANSFIELD and six other cities are still represented as the third annual Junior Association of Commerce A. A. U. boxing tournament reaches the championship stage at Mansfield high tonight.

Scheduled to start at 8:15, tonight's session will offer two exhibition bouts, eight semi-final affairs and eight title heats. The championship settos occupy the ring around 9:15.

* * *

* * *

Other Mansfield mittsters in the meet are Frank Harris, 119, Joe Sauer, 147, Sam Walker, 128, from the Friendly House and John Emerson, 136, Mansfield Y.M.C.A.

Tourney officials have secured a tough opponent for Morrie Shingler, of Ada, Ohio Northern university intra-mural champion. He is Pat Collins, a heavyweight of Columbus. Collins won the American Legion title in 1938 and was a semi-finalist in the National A. A. U. tourney the same year.

Bob Miller, who dropped a disputed decision to Emerson in a slow match Wednesday night, is scheduled to take part in one of the exhibitions.

Mehock Takes Red Streaks To Pittsburgh

Coach Harry Mehock and 15 Mansfield High school trackmen left at 2 p. m. today by automobile for Pittsburgh, Pa., where they will participate in the Tri-State Interscholastic track meet at the University of Pittsburgh track house.

* * *

Earlier this week there had been some doubt whether the squad would make the trip to Pittsburgh or not, as bad weather had held up try-outs and hampered practice. Consequently, Harry wasn't sure his team was ready for competition.

* * *

Those selected by Mehock to make the trip are: Howard Hershey, Leroy Jones, John Caudle, Fred Atwater, Gene Au, Russ Beer, Dave Templeton, Bob Yarmon, Bill Dusty, Dick Burkholder, Don Sawhill, Don Rose, Bob Lantz, Bob Horvath, and Woodbury.

Paul Snyder, Tiger football coach, will accompany the squad to Pittsburgh.

Sponsors First Pin Tourney

Catholic Order Starts Annual Competition Saturday.

First annual individual handicap bowling tournament sponsored by the Catholic order of Foresters will be held Saturday and Sunday at the Meder Bowling alleys.

* * *

Entrants are requested to use the last official averages posted by their league secretary. Bowlers who haven't participated in any league play this season will use the average of their first two games to determine handicap.

* * *

The winner of the tournament will receive a trophy to remain in the winner's possession for one year. If the trophy is won three years in succession, it becomes the permanent possession of the winner.

DETROIT —(U.P.)— Lowell Jackson, of St. Louis, came within one pin of bowling's hall of fame last night when he rolled a 299—one point short of a perfect score.

* * *

Jackson, a member of the world match-game championship team, the Hermann Undertakers, shot his spectacular game while competing in the doubles with Cone Hermann, team captain. In his first game he shot a weak 146. His second was 199.

* * *

Jackson and Hermann advanced to second place in the doubles, Hermann taking second in the singles and third in the all-events.

Competitors divided their time today between bowling and legislation. The site of the 1942 ABC will be selected this afternoon. St. Paul has no opposition for the 1941 meeting. Columbus and Indianapolis are competing for the 1942 matches, with Buffalo and Atlantic City as outside possibilities.

BILLY CONN TO LISTEN TO JOE'S BOUT TONIGHT

PITTSBURGH —(AP)— Light Heavyweight Champ Billy Conn, who hopes to be Joe Louis' next opponent, will hear tonight's heavyweight championship fight by radio.

He planned to see the bout but was forced to return to the hospital yesterday for further treatment of boils which twice have prevented defense of his own title.

TONY ZALE GOES AFTER 10TH STRAIGHT TONIGHT

CHICAGO—(AP)—Tony Zale of Gary, Ind., recent conqueror of Al Hostak, the National Boxing association's middleweight champion, goes after his 10th straight victory tonight against Ben Brown, shifty Atlanta, Ga fighter. They meet in the stadium over a 10-round route.

Bradley's Bimelich, Favorite In Derby

It won't be long now until the Kentucky Derby is run at historic Churchill Downs. And you might as well know who the favorite is.

It's Bimelich, champions two-year-old last year. Bimelich is owned by Col. E. R. Bradley, who already has won several derbies.

BOWLING SCORES

A 644 by Ralph Kahl was the high individual mark at the Meder recreation alleys last night. Bowling with the Ohio Public Service team in the Commercial B league, Kahl put together games of 170, 207 and 267, as he paced his club to two wins over the Shelby Cycles.

Louie Piller trailed with a 638, which included a 234 opening game. He led the Mansfield Printers to a pair of wins over the Possum Run golfers. The Printers are in first place in the circuit.

The Heilman Grocers tallied a 2755 for team scoring honors, topping their performance with a 1036 middle game.

Ben Hogan Pockets First Prize Money

GREENSBORO, N. C.—(INS)—Ben Hogan, of White Plains, N. Y., today took his place among the all-time greats of golf as he pocketed the $1,200 first prize money in the $5,000 Greensboro open tournament.

Hogan captured the tourney yesterday by shooting a five-below par 66 on the morning round, and a 67 on the afternoon round, to give him a 72-hole score of 270—14 strokes below par. This was one stroke better than the record set in 1938 by Sam Snead of Shawnee-on-Delaware, Pa.

BOSTON—Maurice (The Angel) Tillet, 276, France defeated Danno O'Mahoney, 236, Ireland, straight falls.

Think Paychek May Make Louis Miss Early Train Tonight

By SID FEDER

NEW YORK—(AP)—There's a reservation on the 11:45 p. m. train to Chicago tonight in the name of J. Louis.

The same J. Louis—the "J." stands for Joe—has a date to defend his heavyweight championship against Johnny Paychek of Des Moines at 10 o'clock this evening in Madison Square Garden for the entertainment of some 15,000 customers and the benefit of the Finns.

There were few boys and girls—if you could find any at all—willing to wager against Louis making his train connection. Yet there was a growing belief among the inner circles along cauliflower causeway in the last 24 hours that maybe the corn country contender might make enough trouble and delay the Bomber enough to force him to cancel his compartment.

Mind you, only Johnny's best friends were telling him he had a chance to actually dethrone the deadpan destroyer in this tenth defense in his record-breaking run as fistiana's "Mr. Big." But you picked up the word around and about that while Johnny is short on hair, he has enough speed, boxing ability and gunpowder in his right hand to say his piece and say it well.

Then there was the showing of Louis in his most recent outings—15 futile rounds with Arturo Godoy last month and 11 with Bob Pastor last fall. Many came away from those two tea parties shaking their heads in the belief the greatest champion since Dempsey is slipping.

So the expected 15,000 of the faithful are going to chip in to an anticipated pot of around $88,000 tonight to see "if it ain't true." Promoter Mike Jacobs figures the thing will pay as well as the Godoy-Louis festivities Feb. 10, which drew less than $2,000 short of $90,000.

Whatever the total take this time, the Finnish relief fund cuts in for 10 per cent of the gross—"off the top" as the box office men have it. Then Louis, who draws down his usual 40 per cent, is going to turn over 7½ per cent of that and Paychek will donate 2½ per cent of his 20 per cent purse.

Louis, scaling approximately 202, will have a 12-pound pull in the weights when the state athletic commission checks them in during the day, and that, on top of everything else, makes him this corner's choice to sing Johnny, an 8 to 1 long shot, to sleep with his bombs in no more than four rounds.

PERRONI GETS READY FOR COLUMBUS SCRAP

COLUMBUS —(U.P.)— Patsy Perroni, Canton Italian who has fought the gamut of heavyweights from Champion Joe Louis to Movie Star Robert Taylor, set up camp in Columbus today for his next scrap with Jack (Buddy) Walker.

The veteran Perroni expressed confidence he would halt the meteoric undefeated career of the clever Columbus negro in their heavyweight bout at the fairgrounds coliseum on Monday night.

Hemsley Aids Mound Rookies

Cleveland Catcher Also Helps Ray Mack.

COLUMBUS, Ga.—(U.P.)—Ralston Hemsley, the Cleveland Indian playboy and problem child of the dim past of a year ago, has become teacher as well as reformer this spring.

* * *

Once known as Rollicking Rollie, devotee of the flowing bowl, the 32-year-old professor has devoted no little time this spring toward the baseball education of several Indian rookies.

* * *

Mike Naymick, 22-year-old native of Weirton, W. Va., is given a good chance of sticking with the Tribe as a pitcher because of his crossfire pitch. Hemsley has spent long hours with Mike showing him how to throw and control it.

Ray Mack, one of the finest fielding second basemen in the league, seems to be correcting his outstanding weakness at bat through the advice of Hemsley. Rollie, always a dangerous hitter himself, made a study of Ray's stance and swing and offered several helpful suggestions.

Other rookie pitchers have benefited from Hemsley's long service as backstop in the American league. So that bright glow you see around Hemsley's head this summer will likely be a halo and not a red face.

The Indians who spent yesterday traveling, play the Columbus, Ga., club today.

TRADITIONALLY AMERICAN

Writing in their Journal, the Pilgrim fathers tell us that they landed the Mayflower at Plymouth Rock because they could not take the time to seek a more favorable port, their provisions being exhausted "especially our beer."
Beer has been part of the American way of life from the earliest Colonial days until the present. For three quarters of a century Wiedemann's fine Beer has been the favorite beverage of tens of thousands of American homes. The formula that gave its distinctive flavor to Wiedemann's Beer seventy years ago is followed with undeviating fidelity today . . . the "taste you remember with pleasure." SPORTS CHATTER

By FRITZ HOWELL.

COLUMBUS —(AP)— Ohio's big-time sports program is in its usual between-seasons lull.

* * *

But it won't be long until horse racing, beagle club trials, baseball, golf, track and field, tennis, trapshoots, rifle events, skeet matches, pistol tournaments, yacht racing and a host of other features splash all over the Buckeye arena.

* * *

Attracting nation-wide attention will be International Beagle events at New Philadelphia in April, the Western Conference Golf championships in May, National Open and Toledo Inverness four-ball golf fixtures in June, grand circuit racing at Toledo in July, the Grand American trapshoot in August, the Camp Perry National Rifle matches in September, and (we hope) a Cincinnati-Cleveland world series in October.

Scores of smaller events are sandwiched between the headliners, and if you're planning to spend your vacation within the state this year, here are some of the features a sports-minded fan might drop in on:

April 9-14· Beagle Club International Derby and Futurity at New Philadelphia.
April 13-14· Ninth Annual Ohio Rifle Team Championships at Fort Hayes, Columbus.
April 16: Cincinnati Reds open against Chicago at Crosley Field.
April 18: Columbus Red Birds and Toledo Mud Hens open at home. Birds meeting Milwaukee, and Hens playing Kansas City.
April 19· Cleveland Indians open home season against Detroit
April 20: Beulah Park opens 25-day running race meeting at Grove City.
April 27: Mansfield and Ohio Wesleyan High School Relays.

May 3· Toledo Divelbiss Night High School Relays
May 4: Salem, Mentor, Lanier, Poland and Newark High Relays
May 10-11: Miami University High School Relays.
May 20-21: Big Ten Golf Championships at Ohio State Course.
May 24-25: Ohio Conference Golf Championships at Toledo: Ohio Conference Tennis at Oberlin; Ohio Conference Track at Bowling Green· State High School Track, Baseball, Tennis and Golf at Columbus.
May 27-28-29. Ohio Open Golf at Toledo Sylvania.
May 27: Short Ship Harness Racing Circuit opens at Columbus.

June 6-7-8· National Open Golf at Cleveland Canterbury.
June 13-16: Toledo Inverness Four-Ball Golf Matches
June 20-21. State Seniors Golf at Columbus Scioto
June 22-23. State Public Links Golf at Akron. (Tentative).
June 26-29: State Amateur Golf at Cleveland Shaker Heights.

GILBERT DODDS.

Dodds, Ashland College Star, Runs Against Finn Ace at Arena Tonight.

GILBERT DODDS may accomplish a feat tonight at the Arena in Cleveland that has eluded him for two years.

Dodds, crack distance runner from Ashland college, has never won a major race, but he'll be fighting to turn the trick when he and two other Ohio college runners meet Taisto Maki, the flying Finn, in a two-mile exhibition race at the 17th annual interscholastic indoor track meet.

While he has chalked up records and victories with regularity against Ohio competition, the Dodds has participated in five top-notch races, but he has never finished better than second.

The Ashlander gained national prominance in 1939 when he nearly beat Don Lash, of Indiana, in a two-mile affair at the Sugar Bowl in New Orleans.

Since then he came in second behind Greg Rice of Notre Dame in the Central college two-mile event at Milwaukee, fourth in the Boston A. A. race and National two-mile race at San Francisco, and then pushed Rice to a new national record in the Drake Relays.

Dodds, Ralph Force, Heidelberg, and Aaro Alapoti of Miami university make up the trio meeting the Finn ace.

In Ohio, Dodds has won five cross country meets, setting course records at Muskingum, Wooster and Ashland. He won and has defended the Ohio conference title. Dodds broke the 23-year-old mile run mark on the Oberlin college cinder paths.

Maki, making a tour of the United States for the Finnish relief fund, has already suffered two defeats in exhibition races.

NATIONAL COLLEGIATE SWIM OPENS TODAY

NEW HAEN, Conn.—(AP)—The 17th annual National Collegiate swimming championships opened today with 173 entries from 36 leading institutions and an expert's opinion that this classic would produce more photo finishes during its two-day run than Hollywood does in a month.

PAM— "Day of Grace!" By A. W. Brewerton

NO, COLONEL CAREY — HE'S GONE — SAID TO JUST HAND IT TO YOU!
HUH! — RATHER CRUDE LETTERING, ISN'T IT?
3-29
HUMPH!! MUST BE SOME MORE OF THE WORK OF HARDESTY'S HENCHMEN!
REALLY, COLONEL?
LISTEN, WISE GUY! YOUR TIME IS UP BUT WE ARE GIVING YOU ONE MORE DAY OF GRACE — TODAY — OR ELSE!!
GOODNESS, COLONEL, AREN'T YOU FRIGHTENED?
THERE, THERE, PAMELA! — DON'T BE CONCERNED ABOUT ME — I'LL — LOOK OUT FOR MYSELF!
BUT WE WONDER — IS THE COLONEL TAKING THIS THING SERIOUSLY ENOUGH?

DEALS SLUGGISH AT OPENING IN TODAY'S MARKET

Losses, Gains in Second Hour Generally Confined to Minor Fractions.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Irregular prices ruled in today's stock market.

Dealings were sluggish from the opening and, near the second hour, losses and gains generally were confined to minor fractions.

Most traders, discovering nothing particularly inspiring in war news or domestic industrial developements, evidenced little inclination to take a positive stand on either side of the speculative fence.

Market observers scanned weekend merchandising surveys for trend clues. Dun & Bradstreet found that, while retail spending fell substantially from the preceding Easter week, volume for the country as a whole topped the comparable period last year by 4 to 8 per cent.

The review, at the same time, said "the traditional spring revival in business has not yet made its appearance" and added that "lingering winter took its toll" in the retail field, and the lag in sales was quickly communicated to wholesale markets.

Notice also was taken of the New York Federal Reserve bank summary which disclosed chain store systems reporting to this institution enjoyed February sales expansion of 10 per cent over the corresponding 1939 month.

'SANTA' MISSING

LOGAN —(AP)— Rocky hillsides were combed today for a sign of white-bearded Conrad H. (Con) Reightley, the "Santa Claus" of Hocking Valley. He disappeared three weeks ago from his home on a lonely ridge near South Bloomingville.

Sheriff Joe Farbeann and CCC campers took up the search after relatives expressed concern for the 76-year-old man's safety.

House Tacks 55,651,058 More on Social Security Bill

$337,000 CUT ORDERED FOR LABOR BOARD

But Lawmakers Okay Funds Exceeding Roosevelt Budget Estimates for Relief.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — Despite cuts for two labor agencies, the congressional spending wave gained force today from house passage of a labor department-social security bill $55,651,058 above the president's budget.

In an apparent rebuke of its policies, a $337,000 slash was dealt the national labor board after Rep. Cox (D-Ga) said its officials reminded him of "agents of Moscow." The wage-hour division, another target of house criticism, was whittled down $1,080,000.

In general, however, the house was not in an economy mood when it passed the $1,021,639,700 appropriation bill late yesterday. Its total exceeded White House recommendations because increases were voted for the CCC and the national Youth administration.

These election-year victories for the two semi-relief agencies immediately raised hopes of farm and city members that fat boosts would be gained for farm benefits and WPA. Economy advocates were not sure that these hopes would go unfilfilled.

The house allowed a $50,000,000 increase for the CCC to boost its total to $280,000,000, and NYA was increased $17,450,000 to $102,450,000. Among the other items approved was $421,000,000 for the social security program.

On the other side of the ledger, the labor board was voted only $2,843,000 and the wage-hour division $6,406,400.

Charge 'Scuttling Move.'

Administration forces contended that the reduction was designed to "scuttle" the labor board by abolishing the economic research division, which Rep. Murdock (D-Utah) called the "right arm" of the agency. Rep. Wood (D-Mo) asserted that the cuts would "hamstring" administration of the Wagner act.

Besides the CCC and NYA increases, another bulge in budget estimates was threatened in the senate subcommittee considering the supply bill for the war department's civil functions. Senator Thomas (D-Okla), its chairman, said funds for flood control might be increased $25,000,000 or $30,000,000. The budget carried $70,000,000 for this purpose.

Supporters of farm parity payments, meanwhile, were confident of house approval of $212,000,000 voted for that purpose by the senate.

Rep. Cannon (D-Fla), house manager of the farm measure and an advocate of parity payments, expressed the belief that city members would support the extra-budget item, because its bed-fellow is an $85,000,000 surplus crop removal fund. The latter includes money for the "foot-stamp program" to aid urban relief clients.

Committees Set For Club Affairs

When Miss Dorothy Kelly took over her duties as president of Sigma Kappa Gamma last night she named a committee to revise the constitution. Those serving are the Misses Doris Kiraly, Dorothy Leech and Ruby Rowe. A committee to select new club rooms includes the Misses Kathryn Landfair and Kelly.

The Misses Naomi Velzy and Dorothy Bell were appointed to write a complete history of the club for the scrap-book. Arrangements for the Mothers' Day tea are in charge of Mrs. Arlene James, and the Misses Garnet Karl and Landfair.

Following the business meeting Miss Marilyn Wright reviewed a book, and a buffet style luncheon was served by Miss Louise Scott, hostess, assisted by Miss Kiraly. The next meeting will be with Miss Rowe, assisted by Miss Leech, but the date was not announced.

Walter Simon Speaks On Opera At Club Session

"What's Wrong with Opera" from the book "Men and Music" by Deems Taylor was given by Walter Simon last night at the meeting of the Crescendo club when Anne Baer, Elizabeth street, entertained with the assistance of Ruth Hockett, Gladys Kerr and Frank Pival. Olive Jean Hughes conducted the business session.

Recordings of operatic and symphonic music were played. The next meeting will be held with Richard Sparks, Arlington avenue, April 26.

Plan Future Events For Ladies of 37th

Ladies of the 37th Division A. E. F. Veterans association met last night in the Memorial building with Mrs. V. C. Hageman in charge. Arrangements were made to hold a bake sale at the Third street market April 6, and a benefit bridge party at the Legion home in Shelby on April 18.

Mrs. Carl Walker sang three numbers after which refreshments were served and cards played by the group. Mrs. E. C. Sanderson and Mrs. A. L. Allen were in charge. The next session will be a joint covered-dish dinner at the Shelby Legion home on April 25.

BARES PLOT TO ASSASSINATE WITNESS IN MURDER RING QUIZ

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—District Attorney William O'Dwyer disclosed today a prison-directed plot to assassinate an important eye-witness to the slaying of George Rudnick, a police informer, who was stabbed 54 times in a Brooklyn garage in 1937 as a warning to other "stool pigeons."

O'Dwyer said the target of the plot was Angelo Catalano, father of two, a Brooklyn house painter and bookmaker's agent.

The order for Catalano's execution, he said, was sent out from Tombs prison by a prisoner held in the investigation of murder, Inc., the Brooklyn killers-for-hire ring which has been linked with at least 35 gangland slayings.

"The order was issued last week," O'Dwyer said, "and a friend of Catalino was selected to lure him to an execution spot on Long Island."

O'Dwyer said when the friend approached Catalano to go away for the week-end, the latter wise in the ways of underworld "ride" tactics, said he would have to go home first to pick up some clothes.

Waiting for him at home were two detectives with a warrant for his dentention as a material witness in the Rudnick murder.

O'Dwyer quoted Catalano as greeting the detectives with undisguised relief, exclaiming:

"You don't know what a favor you're doing me. I was never so glad to see a cop in my life! They were going to rub me out."

O'Dwyer revealed also that gunmen had taken rooms directly across a hotel courtyard from quarters occupied by Abraham Levine and Tony Maffetore, hoodlums whose "singing" first broke the murder-by-contract syndicate. The men are now under heavy guard in a new hideaway, he said.

TAKE EXAMS

Two Former Policemen Among Civil Service Applicants.

Two former patrolmen, both of whom resigned from the police force, will be among the 28 applicants scheduled to take civil service examinations tonight for position in the police department.

They are Ralph H. Hildebrand, who resigned his position as patrolman in November, 1936, and Harry C. Copper, who quit the force in June, 1938.

They are among the 85 who will take tests for the positions of policemen, firemen, waterworks pumpmen, draftsmen and rodmen. The exams are being held to establish an eligible list from which to fill vacancies in these departments.

SAYS BUSINESS UP 37 PER CENT

Westinghouse Chairman Reports Big Increase For Quarter.

Business at the Westinghouse plants throughout the nation showed a 37½ per cent increase in the first quarter of 1940 over the corresponding period last year, A. W. Robertson, chairman of the board, said yesterday.

He added that the company has a back-log of business amounting to $80,000,000.

Robertson and other Westinghouse officials conferred with business leaders in New Jersey where Robertson commented: "Judging by Westinghouse business here, business in New Jersey seems to be very good."

PLAN FOR PLEDGE PERIOD

Plans for a pledge period to begin April 1 were mapped by members of the Phalanx fraternity during a meeting at the Y. M. C. A. last night. A committee comprised of Donald Zelenka, chairman, Gert Jessen and Vernon Smeltzer was named by the new president, Robert Stone, to arrange social activities and programs for pledges.

SEWER RENTAL TEST SUIT TO BE HEARD MONDAY

New Venire Called to Try $150 Damage Case Filed Against City by Woman.

A special jury venire of 10 names had been drawn today in common pleas court to hear a test case Monday involving Mansfield's sewer rental ordinance.

Atty. J. L. Mason, representing Mrs. Druzella Gatton, 432 South Main street, plaintiff in the suit against the city, requested the new jury because 10 members of the January term petit jury panel had decided against her in another suit several weeks ago.

The case is the first of its kind to be filed since the sewer rent ordinance was passed. The jury will determine whether non-payment of the sewer rental is grounds for discontinuing water and sewer service.

Mrs. Gatton asks $150 damages from the city which she contends resulted from the turning off of the water and sewer services at her home last May.

In an answer and cross-petition, the city requested a judgment for $4.21, representing unpaid sewer rental. Service was restored at the Gatton home after the water bill was paid, but Mrs. Gatton allegedly refused to pay the sewer charge.

The sewer rental ordinance was set up about three years ago. The charge is based on the amount of water consumed in the home.

Prospective jurors who were drawn for the new panel are:

William Richey, Monroe township; Byron C. Styert, 222 Newman street; C. W. Coursen, Perry township; Calvin Beach, Sandusky township; Clarence H. Small, 111 West Second street; Ralph Oswalt, Weller township; Howard Myer, Franklin township; Albert Adams, Jackson township; Harmon Kennedy, Washington township, and James Culler, Cass township.

Four members of the old panel who did not serve during the trial of the other case in which Mrs. Gatton was involved, will be permitted to serve next week. They are Albert L. Stoodt, V. G. Richey, Marie Bell, and Sara Ford. Twelve jurors will be chosen from the panel of 14 names.

FALLS 18 FLOORS

Woman Believed To Have Fallen Or Jumped From Hotel.

NEW YORK—(AP)—A woman who registered as Miss Vera Marshall, Cincinnati, fell or jumped to her death from her 18th floor room at the Hotel Edison early today.

Her body landed on a 14th floor ledge, where the sleeve of her brown cloth coat had caught on a small spiked fence. Miss Marshall wore only a negligee and the coat.

CLUB MEETS.

Members of the Joan of Arc Study club were the guests last night of Miss Marie Hecht, Penn avenue. Miss Marie Kalbfleisch gave the paper entitled "Women in the Hall of Fame." Luncheon was served at the close of the program. Mrs. Verba Kanary, 124 Rae avenue, will entertain April 18.

COLUMBUS — (INS) — A hit-skip driver who ran down and killed Louis Belkin, 62, and injured his daughter, Elsie, 30, was sought by police today.

TAILOR KILLS SELF IN GARAGE

Backs Out Auto, Then Returns to Fire Shot Through Head; Funeral Monday.

Peter Schnerer, 57, of 90 Spring street, died early today at his home from a self-inflicted bullet wound. Coroner Hugh Winbigler returned a verdict of suicide.

Mr. Schnerer, a native of Hungary, had left his home at 5:30 a. m. and went to his garage. He backed the machine out and then returned to the garage where he shot himself through the head, the coroner said. The act was attributed to worry over business conditions and sickness in the family.

Proprietor of a tailor shop and dry cleaning and pressing establishment at 40 Park avenue west, Mr. Schnerer came to Mansfield 32 years ago.

He was born in Frantzfeld, Hungary, July 1, 1883, and was a member of the German-Hungarian Benefit Verine.

Surviving are his wife, Eva; a daughter, Mrs. Alex Hanuaz, of Mansfield; two half-brothers, John Noto of Cincinnati and Frank Noto of Hungary; a half-sister, Mrs. Katherine Leitenberger of Hungary, and four grandchildren.

The body was removed to the Wappner funeral home where services will be held at 3:30 p. m. Monday with Rev. Paul Saleste, of St. John's Evangelical church officiating. Burial will be in Mansfield cemetery.

TURN RED SHIPS OVER TO FRANCE

British-Held Soviet Vessels Given to French in New Contraband Move.

Fare said the two ships were being turned over to the French "for administrative reasons." It was believed they were being taken to Hanoi or another port of French Indo-China.

The announcement said:

"The Soviet ships Selenga and Vladimir Mayakovsky which were intercepted in far eastern waters and brought into Hongkong on suspicion of carrying contraband destined for Germany are being handed over to French authorities.

"The allied navies have always acted in close cooperation in contraband control and the present case is one of those where, for administrative reasons, it has been found convenient to transfer the ships from the custody of one ally to that of the other.

"Neither of these ships has been released and examination for the purpose of contraband control has not yet been completed."

Germans Claim Bombs Hit 8 British Ships.

BERLIN — (INS) — Six merchant vessels were damaged, a seventh was set on fire and a patrol boat was sunk by German warplanes which bombed a British convoy off the Shetland islands last night, the German high command announced today.

(The British admiralty contended only one German plane participated in the attack and that no damage resulted.)

Details regarding the attack were contained in the German war communique, which stated.

"There was nothing particular on the western front.

"The German airforce which attacked a British convoy off the Shetland islands damaged six merchant ships, set fire to one merchantman and sank one patrol boat."

A previous announcement said the German planes also attacked a French destroyer in the English channel.

The attack was carried out last night despite adverse weather conditions, according to the announcement

Nazi Fleet on Way to Naval Battle, Report.

LONDON—(U P)—A report swept through Europe today that the German high seas fleet was taking to sea to challenge Great Britain's naval might for the first time since the battle of Jutland nearly 24 years ago.

Rome's radio flashed the report first. Copenhagen heard similar reports.

The Rome radio report, as picked up here, was that the German fleet was steaming out of Wilhelmshaven, on the North sea coast, to engage the British near the Skager Rak and that a big naval battle was impending.

The Rome radio carried an unconfirmed report that a "strong force of German warships" was preparing to fight the British fleet in the region of the Skager Rak, the outer corridor, lying between Denmark and Norway, from the North sea to the Baltic.

Apparently at the bottom of the report was the fact that the British navy had started a hunt for German ships in the Skager Rak region. It had torpedoed two German freighters and others had gone aground in escaping attack. A German patrol vessel had been sunk by British Royal Air Force planes.

There was no indication how many British warships were in the Skager Rak area. The German newspaper Hamburger Fremdenblatt reported that nine British destroyers had arrived outside Norwegian territorial waters within the last 24 hours.

TAKING SHAPE

Bowman Bridge Expected to Be Ready in Mid-April.

Workmen were erecting the second huge metal arch for the new Bowman street bridge today, preparing the support for the cement floor of the $30,000 structure.

The arch is 55 feet long and 20 feet wide. Another exactly like it was placed in position about two weeks ago.

County Engineer Howard C. Sword said work on the second arch will be completed by tonight and if the weather is favorable the bridge probably will be ready for one-way traffic by the middle of April.

The bridge is being constructed as a WPA project with the county as the sponsor.

skull about 3.30 a. m. yesterday, two hours after arriving on a bus from Wildwood, N. J., where she spent the Easter holidays with her parents. She was last seen by two other co-eds a block from the bus station walking alone toward her campus dormitory.

Schekler's jury held the girl met death by "person or persons unknown" using a "blunt or sharp instrument." Two glaring wounds in the forehead of the almost naked body, one nearly an inch deep, could have been made by a hammer, testified Dr. Herbert Glenn. There were other wounds on the neck, chest and abdomen.

The 130-pound freshman might have been slain at Shiloh church, some four miles from where her body was found. Her bloodstained handkerchief, suitcase, a textbook and notebook were picked up near the church.

Associates said that as far as they knew, the quiet, athletic and deeply religious Miss Taylor had no close men friends on the campus or in state college

GETS OFFERS ON NEW EXPLOSIVE

Inventor Says 3 European Powers Want His 'Death Waves'

WASHINGTON —(INS)— Lester P Barlow, inventor of a new "liquid oxygen" air bomb, which he claims can spread "death waves" over a wide area, disclosed today that he had been approached by three major European powers interested in his secret formula.

Barlow, declining to name the countries, said he, of course, spurned the overtures because he has agreed to submit his bomb to army and navy tests sometime within the next three or four weeks.

The inventor said he is ready to prove that a 1,000-pound bomb made with his formula would kill any living thing within a radius of 1,000 feet

TWO MOLESTING CASES REPORTED

Man, 52, Jailed for Chasing Girl; Youth, 21, Sought for Holding Boy, 13.

old boy from a downtown theater about 9 p. m. yesterday under the pretense of paying the boy to do some work and then took him to his apartment on West Temple court and held him captive for half an hour.

The boy, released by his captor, ran to a Main and Park avenue establishment and called police.

He told them the man, whom he described as about 21 years old and six feet tall, enticed him to the room and forced him to disrobe and then disrobed himself.

Police said the boy was uninjured. The man, they said released him and gave him a note which he was told to deliver to a person by the name of Nick who was to meet him at Park avenue and Main street

The apartment in which the youth was held, police said, was rented by a man who is out of the city and it was believed that the suspect was a companion who had been rooming with him.

MANSFIELD, OHIO, FRIDAY, MARCH 29, 1940.

It is being suggested that hereafter Jimmy Cromwell, our minister to Canada, should be content to let his money talk.

Now that the groundhog has exercised his six weeks of weather control—and then some—will he kindly give the weather bureau a chance?

Taxpayer Shows 'It Can Be Done'

SOME SORT of niche in Ohio's hall of fame should be found for Arnett Harbage, of West Jefferson, whose court action to prevent the state legislature's notorious "mileage grab" in 1936 has terminated successfully.

By refusing to review this case the state supreme court has affirmed decisions of the Franklin county common pleas and appellate courts, which prevented representatives in the legislature from collecting $21,507 mileage for trips THEY DID NOT MAKE between their homes and Columbus, to attend sessions that WERE NOT HELD. This action also has the effect of requiring the auditor of state to collect $5,464.09 from members of the state senate who collected that amount in mileage for trips they did not make.

It appears that Mr. Harbage is the type of citizen and taxpayer who is not content to sit supinely in the midst of evils and conclude that "nothing can be done about them."

It is recalled that when this suit was originally filed in Columbus some legislators were inclined to pooh-pooh the idea and to ridicule Mr. Harbage as an interferer in affairs that were none of his business.

In defense of their "mileage grab" legislators pointed to their doctored journals which showed that sessions had been held regularly between July 22, 1936, and December 8, 1936, when actually no sessions had been held, and contended that courts could not question these records.

The common pleas court decided, however, that these journal entries were fictitious and that payment of mileage under such circumstances would be "fraudulent perversion of public funds."

While collection of "mileage" for trips not made may have been such common practice as not to reflect seriously on the honesty of individuals involved, the conclusion can scarcely be avoided that it was an entirely improper procedure, which the legislators themselves should have corrected long ago, rather than waiting for an alert taxpayer and the courts to point out this "fraudulent perversion of public funds."

Ohio Men Going To Washington

WHEN three hundred Ohio business men make a trip to Washington this week-end, to spend several days acquainting themselves with affairs in the national capital and conferring with Ohio congressmen and senators, the purpose of the journey will be to make whatever contribution is possible toward the general welfare, rather than to serve selfish motives, as has too frequently been the case in so-called "marches on Washington."

Sponsored by the Ohio Chamber of Commerce, this will be the third annual trip to Washington by representatives of that organization, which has given careful study to many present day problems, with a view to securing exact information along industrial, business and agricultural lines, so as to be in position to offer constructive criticism and suggestions based on experience, in an earnest desire to aid in restoration of sound prosperity.

Among the things which impress members of this delegation as important are: A 20 per cent reduction of the federal budget; reorganization of the National Labor Relations Board, and passage of legislation along lines of the Logan-Walter bill, to set up uniform rules for conducting the business of federal commissions and making their decisions appealable.

In an era of unexampled federal waste of public money, and at a time when congress seems inclined to retreat from a previously planned economy program it is important that expression be given to sane and sensible ideas of how some changes for the better can be made, and steps taken toward re-employment of millions of those who are now involuntarily idle.

Deficit spending and continued increase of the federal debt is clearly not the answer to the big question which the United States government and citizenship will be required to answer. To find the right answer it will be necessary to translate sound thinking of a majority of citizens into effective action—and it is in attempting to do their share in this behalf that these several hundred Ohio men are making this trip to Washington.

Preference For Useful Things

A WOMAN who heard people saying that "sooner or later" we'd get into the war, and others wishing for more "war prosperity," was moved to write to her newspaper about it.

"What makes anyone think," she asked indignantly, "that shooting up a lot of ammunition makes for prosperity? I'd much rather have the manufacturers make me some new furniture than to have them make bombs to destroy somebody else's home or maybe even my own."

It seems obvious that the whole world would be healthier and wealthier if it were wise enough to have its manufacturers making useful things instead of bombs and other destructive things. So far, however, neither the belligerent groups nor the fearful non-belligerents seem to be able to pull together in a common cause. And so the wars go on, both economic and military.

Imperial Sportsmanship

MAHATMA GANDHI, political and spiritual leader of 30,000,000 Hindus, is not only a great and good man but a good sportsman. He wants self-government for India, and has the people with him, but refuses to call a strike for complete independence while Britain is involved in war with Germany. This decision makes Britain's burden much lighter than it might have been.

Gandhi was educated in England. Possibly he developed this spirit on English cricket fields. But he has also placed the British government on a spot. Britain now should live up to its own sporting ideals and give India a fair deal.

A Chicago pet fancier left a part of his fortune to a favorite dog and cat—and if each employs an attorney the result should be interesting.

Women no longer object to telling their age, says Mrs. Roosevelt. They got used to doing it when they began to vote.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—A man from Michigan wrote a novel and sent it to us with this little note, "You get this published for me and we'll split."

I'd never heard of this man. I sent it right back to him without even looking at it. I don't know what the title was, or what it is about. Before I left it with the postman, I registered it.

A thing like that can be very annoying. Suppose this novel got lost. He could sue, and probably would. If I had kept it, and someone else had come along with similar ideas, he could sue, and probably would.

* * *

TWO years ago, an agent I know got a song from some fellow in the West. The song was returned. Recently, a song with a similar melody made a big hit. It was a best seller. This agent and the author of the hit song are now being sued by this fellow from the West.

"If I had him here," the agent said thoughtfully, "I'd punch him. I'd cram his lousy song down his gullet."

"Was his song lousy?"

"No. On the contrary it was a very good song. But it wasn't timely. It didn't jell. The publishers didn't want it, or didn't have sense enough to anticipate its merits, and let it go. I returned it to him. Now I'm a defendant."

A lot of people have the idea that because they aren't well known their stuff doesn't receive fair treatment. That isn't true. It isn't true with reputable publishers, I can tell you. Everything that comes in is read, and closely. The outstanding mystery novel of last year came in cold—just bobbed up in the mail.

But that isn't a good policy. People ought to work through agents. That man in Michigan ought to get himself a good agent. Maybe he's another Sinclair Lewis. Maybe he's not. An agent will tell him, and quickly. Recognized agents are thoroughly reliable. They have to be. And they know what they are talking about. They have to guess right, or they starve. If an agent accepts your manuscript, it has a chance. If he refuses it, take his word for it that it is no good, and try again.

* * *

A FEW days ago, I happened to be in the offices of Doubleday, Doran, one of the big publishing houses. I saw a lot of manuscripts and reports over there. The knowns and the unknowns all get the same careful treatment. Reputable firms would go bankrupt if they failed to guess right. With them, a manuscript does all the talking. Boosts from friends or "influential people" do not count. The only thing that matters is the manuscript itself.

Looking Back

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Monday, March 29, 1920.

With announcement of census figures a number of cities over the country were boasting of population gains.

Scarcity of houses was regarded as responsible for few movings at start of customary "moving week."

Rev. R. E. Tulloss was speaker at first of union church services to extend through the week.

Samuel Rosen, North Benton street, underwent operation at Parker sanitarium.

Rev. George E. Kent came from Caledonia to become industrial secretary of the Y. M. C. A. (Word has been received by Mansfield friends that Rev. Kent died recently in California, where he had resided for a number of years.)

P. E. Hughes moved from Tiffin to 320 South Diamond street.

FIVE YEARS AGO TODAY

Friday, March 29, 1935.

J. M. Johnston, 129 Vennum avenue, was ordained into the ministry at Wooster.

Son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Donald West, 245½ West Fourth street.

Mrs. Etta M. Lewis, 70, died.

The 10th anniversary of the Ladies' Auxiliary of Letter Carriers was celebrated with a dinner party at the North Lake park pavilion.

Charles E. Nail, assistant secretary of the Lumbermens Mutual Insurance company, spoke at a meeting of Optimist club.

Son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hall, Ashland road.

TODAY IN HISTORY

This is the anniversary of the death in 1842 of Mme. Lebrun, a great French painter who enjoyed popularity in the days of Marie Antoinette. She was honored by many countries.

THE UNOFFICIAL INQUEST

Military Secrets Not Revealed

—By CARTER FIELD

WASHINGTON — Demitasse storms is the proper description of the congressional inquries into the selling of airplanes made in the United States to the Allies. The notion that this government is being betrayed—is giving valuable military secrets to possible enemies—is just too absurd for words.

The most partisan of President Roosevelt's opponents must admit that little evidence can be brought against the president's contention that, if this country is to build up a formidable aircraft production, it must be permitted to produce airplanes good enough so that the Allies will buy them!

It can not be denied, of course, that the administration is not displeased over to the fact that, under our amended neutrality law, all the benefit goes to the Allies. We will sell planes or munitions or ships to any belligerent if that belligerent will come and get them, paying cash. The cash that only the Allies can come and get them is a fortunate circumstance about which the administration is pleased.

* * *

BUT technically the president's argument would be just as defensible, and just as true, if it were Germany that controlled the seas, and were therefore the only belligerent able to come and get them. It would still be a tremendous contribution to the military strength of the United States to have a huge aircraft production capacity built up in this country.

In addition, this capacity would be built up at the expense of the belligerents, for the price being charged for planes allows a considerable item for plant construction and depreciation, enough so that if the war runs on for any considerable period, the entire cost of all the new plants will have been written off—paid for by the belligerents.

Incidentally this is being done with the benevolent approval of the government agencies interested, including Henry Morgenthau, jr., secretary of the treasury, who was put in charge of foreign buying by the president.

* * *

CONGRESSIONAL investigations are small-time stuff for two other reasons. In the first place, if they are really conducted so as to get at the facts being alleged—that military secrets are beig betrayed—they will be doing a swell job for Nazi espionage. This is only true, of course, on the assumption that the Germans do not know all about the so-called military secrets. Unless one assumes that, the whole thing becomes even more ridiculous, for the entire idea of military secrets becomes a joke.

But if there really are secrets, congressional investigation into them becomes a terrible thing, for it is an axiom in Washington that NOTHING discussed before ANY congressional committee remains a secret for very long after that discussion. Sometimes the reporters get it before the lobbyists, and sometimes the special agents of the interests get it first, but it ALWAYS gets out.

Suppose the investigating committees really find out that secrets are being "betrayed," then what? Everybody knows that the administration is set on continuing its present policy with respect to plane and munition shipments. Nobody really thinks enough votes could be mustered on Capitol Hill to pass a law stopping the present practice over the president's veto.

New York Goes Small Town In Big Way.

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

GET in on this—it's good! New York, of all places, gets steamed up over free love! City College pulls a flaming gesture and installs it on the campus in the person of an ancient little guy from England called Lord Bertrand Russell. Shut yo' mouff, Elsie, before you drown in your own laughter!

I always did get a kick out of that New York line. Big skyline, big talk. But, still—comin' from the wide open spaces of the West, where I've seen many a city slicker get his in unexpected places—I've always had a little, secret, snickering bet with myself that the Big Town was ridin' for a fall. And would some day find itself at a party with its chaps on backwards. And now, by golly, it has! So the peppermint drops are on you, Baby. And you might as well admit it.

And to think that little Bertie Russell hung it on you. You, that are always two jumps ahead of tomorrow! Why, the little guy began that patter back in England over twenty years ago. 'Smatter of fact, I read his reckless little tract with interest. Someone told me it was dynamite. I like dynamite. I pounced upon it with that Bright Expectant Look. And in two seconds knew the awful truth.

'Twasn't dynamite. 'Twasn't even a giant firecracker. 'Twas just a nice but rather silly little man playing with the same old tin popgun.

A safe little man sittin' tight and cosy in the lap of a society he was goin' to wreck, and makin' faces. Wotta guy! Tough! Reckless!

Naw! Jes' showing off and acting dumb. Falling for the most ancient sucker gag on earth . . . shocking the village bustles and ice cream pants. And now the bee-eeg metropolis grabs it up and thinks it goes modern.

Be yourself, tenderfoot!

THERE IS NO FREE LOVE. EVEN IF ONE COULD DISPENSE WITH RINGS AND VOWS, THERE STILL WOULD BE NO FREE LOVE. FOR LOVE IS THE COSTLIEST THING ON EARTH — NO MATTER HOW YOU TAKE IT.

It is the costliest thing on earth because it is still the most difficult and civilized thing for the human spirit to achieve. Any tomcat can and does wander the back fence at will. But it takes more than yeowling to lift man's soul above the gutter darkness of fear and greed, smut and selfishness—up and up to that height where he is willing to share a part of his own self for that vision we have named love.

And if you have ever glimpsed even the slightest radiance of that vision, you will have sweated plenty. And no one can kid you into thinking you got it gratis. Which the dumbest young savage learned thirty million years ago in the jungle when he felt his heart turn in his hairy chest and handed half his kill to some skinny little gal in the tall grass.

But go on foolin' yourself, City College. We sure can use free fun. But don't get sore two o'clock next week if you find that the regular American citizens have razzed your pants off.

Timely Editorial

Courtesy Is Official.

It is gratifying not only to Columbus residents but also to visitors here that Police Chief Kafis is enforcing courtesy among his officers. One of them has felt the penalty for alleged discourtesy to a motorist.

It is hard, sometimes, admittedly, for an officer to be courteous to an offender or a potential one. Quite frequently the person accosted by a policeman gets into the bawling out stage, no matter how well the officer performs his duty.

But a little courtesy does not at all reduce the effectiveness of a policeman's authority, whereas discourtesy does not reduce respect for the law.

Not only in police ranks, and not only among city officials, but everywhere, in county, state and federal government, there are too many officials who, if not actually discourteous, seem unfriendly and unapproachable, and thus do harm to the enforcement of law, the respect for law and the building of good citizenship.—Ohio State Journal.

How It Started

—By JEAN NEWTON

"Smooth as Silk"

Figure of speech for suave, discreet speech and demeanor, "smooth as silk," though a natural metaphor, in addition, has its usage buttressed by an interesting oriental anecdote.

The ancient tale has it that a prisoner was brought before Artaxerxes, King of the Persians, charged with violating one of the laws of the realm.

"What have you to say in answer to the complaint?" inquired the soverign ruler.

The prisoner protested his innocense and cursed his captors.

Though convincing the king of his guiltlessness, his rudeness caused him to be thrown into a dungeon.

When she heard of it, the king's mother remarked:

"Those who address kings must use silken words."

Everyday Poem

—By GEORGE ELLISTON

The Strong Can Rise Again.

You are defeated? You give up?
Then you acknowledge you
Are weak and that you lack the will
The contest to renew?

You have decided that you will
Let spirit down and go
The way of worry, loss and fret,
The way that cowards know?

Be brave, be strong in this hard hour.
Remember that the strong
Can rise again, recapture all
They held dream, hope and song.

WASHINGTON Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—When he sailed for home last week, peace envoy Sumner Welles made no secret of the fact that he was deeply discouraged. The reasons for that discouragement now can be revealed.

When Welles held his first conversation with Mussolini immediately after his arrival in Italy, Il Duce suggested that Welles let him know what peace reaction he got from the Allies—especially the British, since they were the key to the situation.

So after getting rather a pessimistic picture from Premier Daladier in Paris, Welles went on to London. Daladier had told him France faced the alternative either of fighting through to the finish, or of complete surrender. And he described complete surrender as equivalent to any present peace on Germany's terms, because that would mean the eventual surrender of Tunisia, loss of French strength in North Africa, and bowing to the Axis every time it waved a gun in the future.

Daladier said that France preferred to fight through to the bitter end.

This, however, was the known view of France, and what the Axis powers waited for were the peace views of Great Britain. They figured she could control France.

These Welles found to be almost as pessimistic as the French. Prime Minister Chamberlain held that Hitler must go; that it was impossible to make peace while Hitler remained at the helm of Germany.

* * *

Hitler Cements Position.

SO WELLES, in conformity with his promise to Mussolini, advised him of the British position. He did this while he was still in London, in order to give Mussolini time to communicate with his Axis partner.

The answer was Hitler's pilgrimage to confer with Il Duce at the Brenner Pass.

Not only did Hitler refuse to exit, but he entrenched himself more firmly than ever. He made it all too clear by his conference with Mussolini that he, and no one else, would remain in power in Germany. Also he worked out plans for the partition of the Balkans and a bigger and better Axis of dictators.

Regarding the Balkans, it was arranged that Italy should maintain within its sphere of influence Rumania and Jugoslavia, and to a certain extent Greece. Russia was to have a free hand in Bulgaria, and in Turkey—if she was able to exercise it. Germany was to have access to the raw materials of all the Balkan countries.

* * *

Stalin Gets Cocky.

HOWEVER, the chief obstacle in the path of this new and more powerful Axis proved to be none other than Stalin. He was quite cocky. His position was that he had just won a great victory in Finland, and had no intention of making any pledges not to go into Rumania.

So the Germans had to remind Stalin that the Finnish army was not defeated, that it was Germany who kept the Swedes from invading and that if Germany had wanted to fudge a bit regarding aid to Finland, Russia would be fighting yet.

So Stalin gave in. He agreed not to invade Rumania.

Italian worries over Russia were partly emotional, partly fear Russia would invade Rumania. So with this agreement the way was paved for broadening the Axis. As of today, negotiations are being conducted in Moscow and Japan to extend the Axis straight to the Pacific ocean. This will include the greatest area in the world, all working as an alliance and with the closest economic cooperation.

Thus the Germans can get all the raw materials they need, and give the Russians all the technical experts they want. It is a combination which may be unbeatable.

Meanwhile the British, much more than people realize, are up against it. To fight on indefinitely may mean the disintegration of the Empire. Yet to make peace now, means a precarious future in which the Axis powers, little by little, will gnaw away at the Empire.

Thus even before Sumner Welles had sailed for home, Germany had answered Roosevelt's peace move by cementing the Rome-Berlin Axis as never before, by dividing up the Balkans, and by extending the Axis so as to include Russia and Outer Mongolia.

Labor Act.

A MEETING of the house labor committee was considering the Smith amendments to the National Labor Relations (Wagner) Act. Drawled Arkansas's rookie Congressman Norrell:

"If the constitution can be amended, why not the Wagner Act? If the Lord was on earth today, He might even change some of His Ten Commandments."

Shot back Maryland's rookie Congressman D'Alesandro: "Yes; and one commandment He would add would be the National Labor Relations Act. I'm against amending it."

Norrell comes from a farm district, D'Alesandro from a Baltimore labor district.

Moral—Regardless of European dictatorships the house of representatives continues to be the house of representatives.

Merry-Go-Round.

SENATOR PAT HARRISON, administration floor leader in the trade treaty battle, passed up no bets in organizing his forces for the fight. The wily Mississippian arranged for speakers to answer every argument that the opposition might advance. Chief among his oral battery are Clark of Missouri, George of Georgia, Connally of Texas, Brown of Michigan, with astute Jimmy Byrnes of South Carolina working behind the scenes, lining up votes. . . . The Civil Liberties Division of the justice department is quietly investigating the murder of Mrs. Laura Law, wife of a CIO organizer, in Aberdeen, Wash. Charges have been made that secret terroristic forces are operating in the area and that Mrs. Law was killed by these elements. . . . Representative Lindsay Warren is the object of much envy by his colleagues. The North Carolinian has just been renominated (tantamount to election) for his ninth term without opposition. . . . House Democratic Floor Leader Sam Rayburn is hanging up a new record this season. He will have all major appropriation bills through the chamber by April 15.

Plowing a Garden

(A FARMER'S DIARY)

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

I SAW a farmer plow his garden. It was a long narrow strip of land, east of his house. The woven wire fence at the ends had been hung temporarily, so that it could be loosened and turned back along the side. By this plan he was able to plow the plot completely and turn with ease.

The large bay team heaved heavily against their collars, while the bright plow rooted deep into the fertile mellow soil. He started in the center and the higher line of broken earth showed, dark and straight, as the first two furrows were turned in against each other. I noticed how firmly the farmer grasped the worn plow handles with his large soiled hands, as if he anticipated rocks below the surface.

His face was that of a man nearing middle age, open, weathered, and kindly. He was stockily built with a firm and springy step, that gave him a strength and poise of bearing, even behind the plow. I stood near the farthest corner and watched him stop his team and finger the dark fertile soil as if he loved it. He grasped a handful and smelled it vigorously. He did not know that anyone was watching.

He had started on the fourth round when three playful boys in coveralls rushed out of the kitchen door and ran toward the garden. The youngest might have been three and the oldest eight. The tallest boy followed close upon his father's heels and pulled lightly upon his wamus tail. The other two sat down at the edge of the furrow and piled loose earth upon their legs and shoes. When the team approached they squealed and scampered away, four little heels showing, in rapid motion.

But when the farmer stopped, all three boys were on hand. I could see the mutual understanding that was between this man and his boys by the way they climbed upon the handles of the plow and held on to his clothes. They pointed to the blackbirds that were walking among the newly turned clods, and to five hens that scratched the loose dirt nearby, and at some remark of the three-year-old all four faces wore a smile.

"You have three fine future farmers," I remarked, as I greeted him.

"Yes," he agreed, taking the grubby hand of the youngest who had hidden beneath his coat tail. "there'd be somethin' wrong if they didn't follow me. I want 'em to grow up likin' the fresh air and the open fields like I do. Farmin' ain't so bad, when you like it."

CENSUS BATTLE DUE TO CARRY ON FOR YEARS

Twelve New Hampshire Voters Stirred Up Bigger Fuss Than They Expected.

The senator's strategy clicked. After one month, he claims 14,000 recruits throughout the nation. Hundreds more letters poured in on other senators and congressmen. The census bureau said it got a few hundred, too.

Angry pen-wielders said the income questions weren't half of it, either. They'd been told over the radio they'd go to jail if they didn't answer. As red-blooded Americans, they'd just go to jail. So there.

The heat was definitely on.

"Un-American, unlawful," shouted Quick-on-the-Trigger Tobey.

"Un-American yourself — absurd," sputtered harassed Harry Hopkins, formerly of the WPA, and now responsible for census questions as secretary of commerce.

Epithets burned the air at both ends of Constitution avenue. And still they come, burying the merits of the issue in blasts of hot words. It sounds more like the babble of the census.

* * *

'Business Sought Data.'

For public consumption, Tobey insists the income and divorce questions violate the bill of rights, and exceed the authority of the secretary of commerce under the census law of 1929.

Also for the public ear, Harry Hopkins replies that the demand for the questions originated with professional and business groups and statesmen who needed to know something more about the incomes of people who make less than $5,000 a year.

Furthermore, says Hopkins, the facts about unemployment—our biggest unsolved problem—can be gathered accurately in no other way, and they're legal.

No doubt they both believe sincerely in what they say. But this being election year, and all, is THAT the whole story behind the battle of the census? Hardly.

Where did the questions come from, anyway? The census bureau's expert, Dr. Leon Truesdell—a rock-ribbed Republican from Maine—framed them in response to demands for questions about the "economic status" of Americans.

Statistical, economic, business and insurance organizations—substantial groups—all have talked economic status questions with the bureau for 10 years and more. Some of these groups are what impolite New Dealers refer to privately as Tory outfits, too

Income data will tell them not WHO makes how much, but WHERE the various income levels lie in the nation's towns and cities. That's the same thing as telling business people where business is good for different qualities of goods and services. It's money in their pocket.

Many politicians and statesmen want the income data for speeches, programs, bills, and what-have-you, dealing with unemployment and relief. Some of them are curious to know, too, whether the President was right—or talking through his hat—when he said one-third of the nation is ill-clad, ill-housed, and ill-fed.

* * *

Hopkins Interested?

It could be asked whether Harry Hopkins, a right bower in the White House, might not be interested in those questions for similar reasons. Would they prove the President's thesis? Justify New Deal spending for low-income Americans? And wouldn't the census taker's answers to those questions be ready to release to the public (and orators) in the heat of the coming presidential campaign? Maybe so, maybe not.

And another stickler:

Why have none of the professional groups outside government that originally told Harry Hopkins he had their OK on Census Questions No. 22 and 23, come charging to the rescue of the beleaguered secretary?

They're not saying. But maybe they don't like to back publicly inquests into private incomes, or they figure they'll be singed in the political bonfires this fall. Or if they're anti-New Deal, maybe they agree with that senator, who said a couple of "silly questions" might lose the Democratic party a million votes this fall.

* * *

Republicans Cautious.

And why hasn't the Republican party high command come blasting down the political highway to back up Senator Tobey?

Now we're getting warm. Positively hot, in fact. The Republican party's high command knows—as does the Democratic high command—that the real battle of the census is still to be fought. And it's not strictly a party affair. Jealous members of the house of representatives in both parties, especially members in both parties who may lose their seats when the census man's figures are totalled,' are the primary strugglers in that battle.

Reappointment's the word for it! And it means political blood-letting every 10 years. But that's another story.

To date we have only three developments in the opening skirmish of the census:

1. Lots of people don't like the idea of discussing their incomes and divorces with the census taker.

2. Senator Tobey's blast may damage the results of the 1940 census.

3. And Tobey or no Tobey, John Q. Citizen will be asked about his income if he makes less than $5,000 a year, although he may seal the answers away from the eyes of the census taker, and mail them to Washington.

Senator Tobey wins his fight—and also loses it—because (A) the senate won't push through his resolution asking the Census Bureau not to ask the income questions, and (B) the courts won't have time to pass on the legality of the questions before the census takers arm themselves with blank forms, umbrellas, overshoes, and smiles, and assault the nation's door-bells.

(Tomorrow: Who is going to kill Congressman Cock Robin and his five colleagues?)

MILLERSBURG—Olen Christner, 21 ,living two miles north of Mt. Hope, was fined $5 and costs by Justice Wayne Stilwell before whom he pleaded guilty to an assault and battery charge, allegedly upon Noah Yoder. He made arrangements to pay and was released. He was arrested by Sheriff Harry R. Weiss.

Felt Back Would Break Till Mansfield Man Took Vendol

Says he never took anything that gave such grand relief. Advises everyone to try this favorite medicine.

MR. JOB D. NORRIS

"Vendol proved to be exactly what I needed and gave the grandest relief I have enjoyed in a long time," declared Mr. Job D. Norris, of 319 Ninth Ave., Mansfield, a retired U. S. Army Man, in conversation with the Vendol Man a few days ago in Central Drug Store, where he daily meets many people who have taken Vendol and praise it highly.

"I had such aching pains across my back that sometimes felt like it would break. The pains would run down my legs and I often had to rub them before I could get off to sleep.

"I was constipated nearly every day and I took a lot of medicine for this trouble but I like Vendol and the little Vendol laxative tablets better than any I ever tried. They acted nice, easy, and thoroughly and I noticed after Vendol relieved my constipation, that the pains in my back and legs grew less painful; and since taking several bottles I am no longer troubled with backaches.

"I feel so much better since taking Vendol that I am glad to say a good word for it every chance I get.

Vendol has brought needed relief to many persons who had suffered from pains in the back, arms, muscles, and joints where these troubles were due to constipation or need of a mild diuretic action on the kidneys. It is pleasant to take and acts promptly.

Most of all leading druggists sell Vendol and I invite you to come to Central Drug Store, Cor. Main & 4th Sts., ask for me, the Vendol Man, and I will explain all about my medicine and how it can help you just as it has many well known people right here in town.

TWO SHOWER PARTIES FETE YOUNG WOMEN

Miss Maureen Bergstrom, Bride-Elect, Honored at Pre-Nuptial Event; Mother, Sister Entertain for Mrs. West.

MISS MAUREEN BERGSTROM was the guest-of-honor yesterday evening at a pre-nuptial shower given by Miss Mable Hahne at her home, 605 Scholl road. Although no definite date has been set for the wedding, Miss Bergstrom, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Bergstrom, 171 Western avenue, will become the bride of Harold Faine of Galion early in the summer.

Guests at the party were Miss Bergstrom's associates in the advertising department at the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company. They played bunco at three tables, and prizes were won by the Misses Evelyn Lash, LaVerne VanArnhem and Virginia Derr, who presented their awards to the honoree.

Luncheon was served at a long table, decorated with pink and yellow appointments and place favors. The centerpiece was a clever arrangement of kitchen gadgets for Miss Bergstrom. The guests gave the bride-elect a shower of kitchen gifts, and she received a complete set of pyrexware from the hostess.

* * *

The mother and sister of Mrs. Leroy H. West entertained in her honor last night at the latter's home, 150 Bartley avenue, with a miscellaneous post-nuptial shower. Mrs. Richard Stofer and Mrs. Jay C. Miller were hostesses to 30 guests who made a bride's book during the evening.

Refreshments were served at the small tables decorated in pink and white appointments. The hostesses gave the honoree gifts of silver and crystal. Mrs. Kinsman Lamb, Lakewood, was a guest. Mrs. West was Miss Dorothy Estella Miller before her marriage on Easter Sunday.

Award Prizes at Last 2 Benefits Of Dental Clinic

Nearly 700 persons attended the benefit card parties held by the Dental Clinic at the American Legion home yesterday and Wednesday. During the afternoon and evening sessions Thursday there were 81 tables in play. Prizes in addition to the table awards were presented to the following persons during the afternoon:

Mrs. A. Schweitzer, Mrs. W. C. Ingraham, Mrs. Ralph Schad, Miss Jane McFadden, Miss Marjorie Schwein, Mrs. E. M. Eichen, Miss Anne Wendt, Mrs. W. C. Fort, Mrs. R. C. Klopfenstine, Miss Teddy Wendt, Mrs. D. H. Landers, Mrs. C. Summerville, Mrs. G. P. Gernhardt.

During the evening prizes were awarded to Mrs. C. H. Sanborn, Mrs. W. J. Robbins, Mrs. Charles Oswalt, Miss Ethel Howard, Miss Eloise Tingley, Mrs. Thornton Moore, Miss Maxine Jones, Mrs. J. H. Watkins, Mrs. F. J. Lichtenberger, Mrs. Lawrence Nichols, Mrs. E. Schad, Mrs. W. E. Slabaugh and Mrs. N. E. Leonard.

Proceeds from the benefit parties, which were in charge of Mrs. Robert Evans, will be used to provide dental work for indigent children in the Mansfield schools.

CLUB HOSTESS.

Mrs. Harry Hostettler, Blanche street, entertained members of the Bide-a-Wee club with luncheon and bridge Wednesday at her home. The next meeting will be April 10 with Mrs. C. R. Ladd, 123 Grant street.

Served Luncheon To Women's Aid

Mrs. C. D. Valentine and Mrs. A. T. Rogers were hostesses to 25 members and guests of the Women's Aid to the Pennsylvania Railroad yesterday for a 1 o'clock luncheon meeting at the Evergreens. Mrs. Richard Eberhart of Loudonville and Mrs. J. O. Byers were the guests.

Spring flowers decorated the luncheon tables. Mrs. E. W. High was in charge of the business session, at which time the group made plans to attend a General Aid meeting in Pittsburgh, Pa., on April 9.

Hearts were the diversion, with prizes going to Mrs. J. E. Young, Mrs. A. H. Lantz and Mrs. C. R. Montgomery. Another 1 o'clock luncheon meeting will be held at the Evergreens on April 25. Mrs. E. A. Graham and Mrs. Grant Ward will be the hostesses at that time.

Informally Speaking...

By MARIANNE

NEWS of vacationing Mansfielders is predominate today, with some folks returning home, while others are lolling in the warmer sunshine of other climes and enjoying a change of scene. . . . For instance, Carolyn Wolf is going to Nassau for two weeks, following a week's stay at various points of interest in Florida.

Marianne

* * *

Speaking of Florida, Mr. and Mrs. James E. Lucas returned this week from a motor trip through the sunshine state. . . . On the way north, they stopped off in Chillicothe to visit with their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Roderick Lucas, and their children, Jimmy and Ann. . . . And before we stray too far away from Florida, I mustn't forget to tell you that Mrs. W. K. Tappan, her daughter, Mrs. Lois Anson, and her granddaughter, Shirley Anson, are stopping at the Fort Harrison hotel during their vacation in Clearwater.

* * *

His friends will be pleased to learn that Louis Massa returned home from the Cleveland Clinic this week. . . . He was confined there six weeks for a series of operations, and is convalescing at home now.

* * *

Jack Hahne (who is the youngest licensed pilot in this part of the state) flew to Pittsburgh, Pa., and Washington, D. C., this week as a co-pilot with his uncle, Bud Harrington, in the latter's Stinson cabin plane. . . . The twosome will fly home again this week-end. . . . In fact, Washington seems to be quite popular in the news of the day. . . . Mrs. Earl Hartley and her children, Elaine and Lowell, have gone to the capital to join Mr. Hartley, who has been there several weeks now. . . . The family plans to remain until about the first of October.

* * *

OF INTEREST to Mansfield poets will be the announcement of the Ohio Poetry society's seventh annual lyric poetry contest. . . . Open to all Ohio poets, the entries must be lyric poetry. . . . No one contestant can enter more than 64 lines, and his name should not be submitted with the manuscript—but in an accompanying envelope instead, with the titles on the outside of the same. . . . The prize (which is presented annually by Rachel Mack Wilson, founder and former president of the society) is a gold medal engraved with the society's emblem. . . . The winner will be announced during National Poetry week from May 18 to 24. . . . Entries should be mailed to Gardiner Wade Earle, 3784 Lowell road, Cleveland, by April 15. . . . So all you poets had best get busy and bring some laurels to our town!

* * *

Here we are back to Washington again—that is, in around about way. . . . Charles Ireland, who's in the second tenor section of the men's glee club at the College of Wooster, is leaving tomorrow with that group for a ten-day concert tour. . . . Mt. Vernon and Brooklyn, N. Y., Trenton, Barnegat and Jersey City, N. J., Bridgeport and Uniontown, Pa.; Arlington, Va., and Washington are among cities where the club will appear—and while in the latter city (on April 6 and 7) the men will spend Saturday sight-seeing in the nation's capital. . . . Charles, you know, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. David S. Ireland.

* * *

Mrs. Nell Beiring is in the city now as the house guest of her niece, Mrs. Ralph Beck—she is visiting here from Ontario, Cal. . . . Incidentally, perhaps you remember Mrs. Beiring's brother, Rev. F. M. Allen, as he was the pastor of St. Matthew's Lutheran church here about 15 years ago.

Mansfielder Marries Ashland Resident

Walter Kneeland, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Kneeland, 68 Johns avenue, took as his bride Easter Sunday, Miss Florence Ernst, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ernst of Ashland. The ceremony was performed at noon at the First Methodist church in Russell, Ky., with Rev. O. P. Smith reading the ceremony.

The bride wore powder blue with navy accessories and a corsage of sweetpeas and roses. Her only attendant, Miss Mary LaPlante, wore a costume in the same shades with a rose corsage. Robert McDanial was best man. The bride is a graduate of Ashland high school, and is employed at the Ashland Telephone company. Mr. Kneeland was graduated from Mansfield Senior high school and is employed at the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company. Mr. and Mrs. Kneeland are now at home on Third street in Ashland.

Plan Birthday Party of Club

Activities of Social Clubs

MRS. JACK CROUSE was a guest present Thursday evening when Mrs. Daniel Reese, Columbia avenue, entertained eight members of the Atlas club at her home. The evening was spent socially and at a late hour a luncheon was served buffet style with appointments in the Fiesta colors. The next meeting will be held on April 11 at the home of Mrs. Gray Adkins, 19 Ford avenue.

* * *

Members of the As You Like It club met at the home of Mrs. Florence Warton, 105 West Second street, for a meeting Wednesday evening, with Mrs. Dorothy Strom and Miss Beulah Beck as guests. Refreshments were served following a social evening.

* * *

Mrs. Robert Birmelin was hostess to members of the Happy-Go-Lucky club Wednesday afternon at her home, 15 Monroe street. Prizes in the games were awarded to Mrs. Roger Roser and Mrs. George Mace. Refreshments followed at the close of the hour. The club members are planning to entertain their husbands with a covered-dish dinner at the home of Mrs. Russell Birmelin in the near future.

* * *

Fourteen members of the Get-Together club met at Mrs. L. A. Wade's home Oakenwald avenue yesterday evening. The group played card games during the evening, and prizes were won by Mrs. Robert Haag and Mrs. Esther Schropp. The hostess served refreshments after the games. Mrs. George Hostetter will have the meeting of April 11 at her home on Belmont avenue.

* * *

One guest, Mrs. Lowell Morgan, was present at the dinner party of the We club last night when Miss Anna Burger, 7½ East Third street, entertained. Cards were played during the evening and prizes were awarded to Mrs. George Berg, Mrs. Clyde Neff and Mrs. Harry DeYarmon. The next meeting will be April 11 with Mrs. Vern Moser, 120 South Foster, in charge.

* * *

Hearts were in play at two tables yesterday when Miss Lena Carabetta, North Mulberry street, entertained members of L'Amici club. Miss Jennie Augustine was a guest. The winners were Mrs. Peter Marfia and Miss Jennie Settembrino. Luncheon was served at the small tables which were decorated with red and white flowers. Mrs. Joseph Mascioli, East Sixth street, will entertain April 11.

* * *

Mrs. R. J. Elliott was hostess for a meeting of the Happityme club yesterday afternoon at her home on Rock road. A covered-dish luncheon was served to the 20 members and four guests at noon. Mrs. Byrd Wilson, Mrs. J. J. Patterson, Mrs. Lawrence Smith and Mrs. W. W. McGregor were the guests.

The group played contests during the afternoon, with prizes going to Mrs. Edna Bender and Mrs. Glen Hartman. Mrs. Donald Orewiler will have the meeting of April 18 at her home on South Main street.

FORM NEWCOMERS CLUB FOR MANSFIELDERS

First Session Held Yesterday at Towne House; Federation Members Play Bridge at Club, Fete Departing Resident.

VARIED social events provided interest and entertainment throughout the city yesterday as a few vagrant warm breezes renewed the hope of spring. An idea that has long been in the minds of some Mansfielders finally became a fact yesterday afternoon when a group of 25 newcomers to the city assembled for a dessert-bridge at the Towne House.

Mrs. Frank Burger was the hostess for the affair. She has for the past three years officially welcomed newcomers to the city and now organized a club for them. The group decided to meet regularly on the second and fourth Thursday of each month. The next meeting will be held April 11 at the Towne House.

* * *

The diversion was in play at seven tables yesterday afternoon during the luncheon-bridge meeting of the Mansfield Federation of Women at the Women's Club. Prizes in the games were won by Mrs. Paul McConnell, Mrs. Harry Soulen and Mrs. Andrew Theiss. Mrs. Lester Redding, Mrs. W. G. Black and Mrs. V. H. Lodde assisted Mrs. Carl Russell and Mrs. William Layton with the arrangements. The annual federation tea will be held at 2:30 o'clock next Tuesday afternoon at the club, when Mrs. J. C. Wilson will have the program.

* * *

Mrs. Joseph E. Kuebler, 72 Heineman boulevard, was honored with a farewell party by members of the Notre Dame Study club yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. C. J. Wehinger on Bartley avenue. Mrs. Paul Hensler was associate hostess.

Luncheon was served at 1 o'clock at a table decorated with spring flowers and tall yellow tapers. The group presented Mrs. Kuebler, who is leaving next week to make her home in Akron, with a handkerchief shower during the social hour.

Musical Program Presented Before Evangelical Class

Mrs. Janie Christie entertained 30 members and guests of the Fellowship class of the Evangelical Congregational church last evening at her home, 78 Buckingham street. Mrs. Daniel Stuckey was in charge of the business, and theme of the program, which followed, was "At the Cross."

In addition to the group singing of hymns, musical selections included numbers by a quartet composed of the Misses Lois Williams, Helen Metzger, Helen Hess and Wanda Stuckey, and a duet by Mrs. Wilbur Goff and Mrs. James Wynn. A guitar solo was given by Miss Hess, and later she played a duet with Miss Metzger. Rev. M. D. Wenger sang a solo, as did Mrs. George Griffith, and the Misses Williams and Stuckey gave a vocal duet.

Readings and prayers on the program were presented by Mrs. Lulu Colby, Mrs. Goff, Rev. Wenger, Miss Lethia Cole and Mrs. Charles M. Dillon. Refreshments were served at the close of the evening. The place of the next meeting, April 25, will be announced later.

Student Recital Set for Saturday

Mrs. Zora Buchanan will present two pupils of the Mansfield branch of the Sherwood Music school in recital Saturday evening at the Women's Club at 8:15 p. m. Those appearing are Pauline Miller and Laura Belle Hamilton. The two girls will open their program with the "Jubel Overture" by Weber, and their final selection will be "Second Hungarian Rhapsody" by Liszt.

For her group of numbers Miss Hamilton will play "Pomponnette" by Durand, "Minuet" by Boccherini, "Sonata in C Major" by Mozart and "By the Brookside" by Tours.

Miss Miller has selected "Rosamunde Ballet" by Schubert, "Sonata In D" by Hayden, "Harpsichord Piece" by Bach and "Shooting Stars" by Wolfe.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

"Under some circumstances," I began slowly, "I should think such a marriage, based on respect, mutual esteem and comradeship, might have distinct chances of success, provided the man and the woman concerned were past their romantic youth, which demands so much."

Edith gave a short laugh.

"They are, definitely," she said. "Then," I hesitated, "I should be inclined to answer your question affirmatively. A marriage like that would be 'right' if—"

My voice trailed off into silence, and Edith spoke quickly.

"If the woman is not in love with someone else, you mean," she said. "But suppose, although she has loved somebody else for years, she feels for the first time that though she is still not free from the thrill of that love, she hopes that she may forget her long folly. Do you think a marriage like that would help her to forget?"

"It might," I said slowly. "On the other hand, marrying one man with even the remnants of love for another in her heart might turn her affection of her husband into dislike, and ruin the marriage for both of them. Why couldn't she think and plan and hope for marriage—and let her faithful sweetheart hope also—but delay matters until she is sure that her love for the other man is dead beyond recall?"

I did not dare to look at her while I spoke, and I never have carried on a more embarrassing conversation. I knew and she knew that if our colloquy had been out in the open, it would have run something like this:

"Do I dare marry Jim Paige who loves me when he knows that I have no romantic love to give him?"

"Yes, unless you are still in love with my husband."

"But I'm hoping that marrying Jim may help me forget Dicky. I want to forget him."

"Better wait until you are sure that your love for Dicky is gone beyond recall."

But these were words that could not well be spoken between us. That Edith knew them as well as I did, I realized when she suddenly rose from her chair, came over to mine, and pulled me up facing her.

"You have made things very easy for me, Madge," she said, "far easier than I deserve. There's no use our raking up the past—you have told me that—but I do want you to know that I never wittingly shall hurt you again in any way. And I am going to take your advice to the letter."

"I am so glad," I said, not pretending to misunderstand her.

"Now there's but one thing more," she said. "It's a sort of atonement which I must make for my own self respect. You and Dicky must let me give up my share of the magazine."

HOROSCOPE

A day in which very definite progress is to be made in the way of stabilizing the affairs and marching on to security and success is indicated by the lunar aspects as well as mutual configurations. The latter suggest the employment of tact, diplomacy, strategy and intrigue rather than open and direct methods and technics. This is due to the possibility of the opposition of those in power and authority. In all, industry, perseverance, steadfastness, sound ideas and practical programs are assured enduring results.

Those whose birthday it is may be assured of a year of opportunity for putting the affairs and the fortunes on a solid foundation, with perseverance, application, fidelity, sound plans and workable projects winning against possible opposition from superiors, employers or others whose support is desired. Strategy, cleverness, intrigue or subtlety are factors for enduring success and security.

A child born on this day may have all the solid and practical arts and skills and realize attainment of sound aims and ends by strategy, tact and diplomacy. Elders may be generous with gifts, bequests or other benefices.

Circles Conduct Routine Sessions

A covered-dish dinner was an event of yesterday noon for members of Circle Two of the First Methodist church at the home of Mrs. M. L. Bayer, 149 Bartley avenue. There were ten members and one guest in attendance. The business was conducted by Mrs. Blaine Johnson, who also read a paper. The hostess' daughter, Peggy, gave a reading during the program. Winners in the contests were Mrs. Charles Ray and Mrs. Ella Frasher. The place of the April 18 meeting will be announced later.

• • •

Mrs. George Hughes, 42 Sherman avenue, was hostess to the members of Circle Three yesterday. Mrs. Milton Gettleman was associate hostess. There were three guests, Mrs. Rebecca Farrell, Mrs. Charles Kime and Miss Betty Horner present. Miss Ethelwyn Auten led the devotions. Members spent the afternoon in Red Cross sewing. The next meeting will be held April 25 with Mrs. Harry Knox, Edgewood road.

Covered-Dish Dinner Held By Church Group

A covered-dish dinner was served to members of the St. Paul's Thursday Nighters in the church parlors yesterday evening. The small tables were decorated with Easter appointments and pastel tapers. Miss Louise Seybold had charge of the devotions.

Games and contests were conducted with the Misses Helen and Marguritte Boyer, Robert Rhoads and Glenn Schroff in charge. Prizes were won by Joseph Morganstern, Miss Seybold, Mrs. Roland Stahl and Rev. H. L. Gilbert. The April 18 meeting will also be a covered-dish dinner at the church parlors at 6:30 p. m. Arrangements will be in charge of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd O'Brien, Miss Anne Pasheilich and Halsey Hipp.

• • •

WIN PRIZES.

Beverly Jean Zediker, Nancy Lou McFarland, Margery Welles and Wayne McFarland won prizes at the junior church party held last night in the basement of the First Christian church. The advisers were, Mrs. Ira Miller, Mrs. Lilas McFarland and Maxine Zediker.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

LEARN THE SIGNALS

Effective defensive play is impossible without a knowledge of the standard signals by both partners and the proper use of them. While the declarer runs a suit, a discard from another suit by your partner does not mean that he wishes that suit led. The height of the card determines the nature of his message. If you read it as the lowest he could hold in the suit, he wants you to lead something else. If you read it as higher than his lowest, he suggests your leading it, especially if he follows it with a lower discard later.

(Dealer: North. East-West vulnerable.)

North	East	South	West
1 ♦	Pass	2 NT	Pass
3 NT

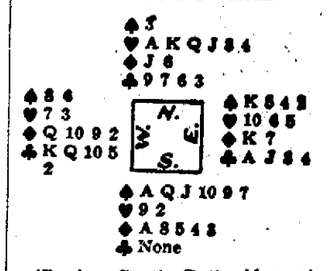
West did not feel like risking a vulnerable overcall of the 2-No Trumps, especially since he saw a No Trump game looming up and a good chance to beat it. He refrained from doubling, for fear of chasing the opponents into a profitable escape.

In order to make sure his partner returned a spade, if ever in the lead, and to cover the chance that she also might be blank in clubs or have only a singleton, he decided to lead his club tops. To attract attention, he led the A first, then the K, and for his third lead picked the high club 9 to indicate a shift to the higher-ranking spades.

Declarer, of course, won the third club, then led the diamonds. On the first West discarded the heart 2 to discourage a lead of that suit, then the 4 to confirm it, next the spade J and finally the spade 10 on the fourth diamond, which East won. That practically made six consecutive signals for the same thing, but East returned the heart J, so declarer got three tricks there and was down only one. If East had led a spade, it would have been set three more. Then came a lesson in signals.

• • •

Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable.)

If South happens to get into 6-Spades doubled by East, on this deal, and West leads the club K, how should declarer play for it?

PLAN PARTY.

Plans were made Wednesday evening at the meeting of the Women's Relief corps for the celebration of the group's 56th anniversary at Memorial hall with a covered-dish family dinner April 18. Mrs. Helen Edmonstone, president, was in charge of the full ritualistic work, and the charter was draped for the late Mrs. Mary Casad.

Spring Show Of Electric Ranges Opens

Electric Range Spring Showing now being held by dealers, brings to homemakers here a great opportunity to see the many gleaming new models of electric ranges that set an all-time high for beauty, efficiency and economy.

Although millions of users know the low cost of electric cooking, a recent national survey proves that guesses of those who don't know—average twice the actual average cost.

Electric cooking really is economical cooking. Present electric rates, highly perfected new heating elements in modern electric ranges, completely insulated ovens that conserve heat, exact methods of heat measurement at the snap of a switch, and automatic thermostats which keep current down to a minimum, contribute to this low cost of operation.

Added to these mechanical perfections, electric cleanliness, perfect cooking results, and less shrinkage of foods resulting through use of electricity assure even greater economy.

Besides economical cooking, these modern electric ranges offer fast cooking. Heating elements glow with surging heat at the snap of a switch. Ovens heat miraculously fast.

Then again, electric cooking is clean. There's no flame or odor from an electric heating element. Consequently, there's no soot to cause a greasy film on curtains and walls. This means cleaner kitchens and much less washing and cleaning work.

Electric ranges actually put more hours in the day, because they set housewives free from cooking supervision—give hours of free time in which to perform other tasks about the house—or to leave the house for shopping or bridge without even a thought or worry.

There's no need to be a slave to your oven for electric time-controls do the watching for you by turning on the heat in your electric range—turning it off when the meal has cooked to piping hot for your return!

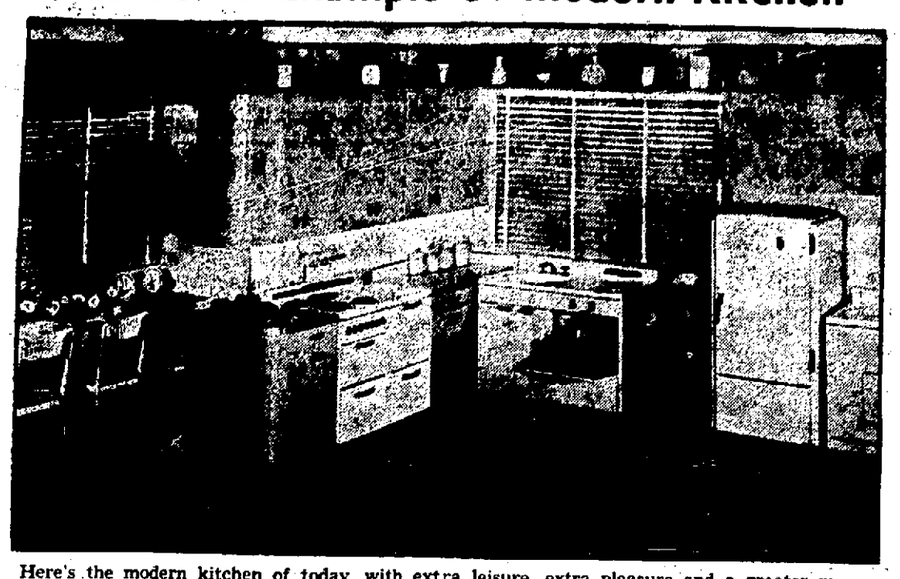
There's no reason for dreading hot-weather cooking when an electric range is in your home. Electric ranges have always had plenty of oven insulation. This keeps the heat inside, concentrated on the food, where it belongs, while the cook stays cool. The heat stays in the oven.

As for cooking results—they're simply perfect with an electric range. Without change of cooking method, you can turn out hundreds of your old favorite dishes—with a new taste thrill. Foods look better, taste better, are better when cooked electrically.

You'll find the beautiful, efficient, clean, cool, time-saving new electric ranges of 1939 at your electrical dealer's or power company's showrooms. Don't miss this opportunity to see them.

CRESTLINE—The Aid Society of Calvary Reformed church are sponsoring a bake sale at the Henry Eckstein grocery on Saturday, March 30.

Here's An Example Of Modern Kitchen



Here's the modern kitchen of today, with extra leisure, extra pleasure and a greater measure of living for you. Reading from left to right: the electric range, electric dishwasher, electric refrigerator, and many other unseen electric appliances that make the homemaker's existence a miracle of easier living.

Helps Free Women From Home Duties

Electric cookery with its fast, easy cooking has given women more freedom from home duties than perhaps any other single appliance, according to Arch Jones, manager of Sears-Roebuck & Co., dealers in Electroday Electric ranges.

Pointing out that cleanliness was one of the big features of electric cookery, Jones stated that women also liked its economy and low initial price of operation.

Sears, which is displaying its complete line of Electroday ranges in connection with the annual spring showing of ranges, maintains a sales and service department for ranges composed of Stanley Seidel, Sam Harris and Marion Smith. The store is located on West Third street.

Nevada contains more public domain than any other state.

Electric Cookery Halts Bending Over Hot Stove

Perfection of the new electric ranges has done away with the endless bending over a broiling hot stove that was forced upon women of another day as they prepared meals for the family, according to M. C. Pecht, of the Martin Hardware company, dealers in Westinghouse Electric ranges.

Electric cookery, because it uses no fuel, also has lessened the housewife's problem of keeping her home clean the year around, he continued. Electric cookery because it eliminates variable temperatures, has simplified woman's cooking problems, Pecht added.

Martin Hardware is exhibiting a complete electric kitchen in conjunction with the annual spring showing of electric ranges sponsored by Mansfield electrical dealers. The store is located at 11 North Main street.

Cites Advantages Of Electric Ranges

Because women wanted to get away from the time-wasting drudgery of old fashioned cookstoves, thousands of American housewives have turned to electric cookery, according to Clayson D. Bell, owner of the Bell Music company and Mansfield distributor for Hot-Point Electric ranges.

Women have reported, Bell says, that electric cooking is clean, fast and easy—and that it is surprisingly economical. These factors, coupled with recent reductions in prices have made electric cookery more desirable than ever, he adds.

Bell is showing a complete line of Hot-Point Electric ranges in his store at 26 South Park street in conjunction with the annual spring showing of electric ranges in Mansfield, sponsored by the city's electrical dealers.

ENTER CONTEST

4 Senior High Bandsmen to Vie in District Solo Event.

Four members of the Senior high school band will go to Bellevue tomorrow to compete in the annual North Central district Class A high school solo contest.

Representing Mansfield in the competition will be Harvey Todd, clarinet; Lois Ohler, flute; Norman Wilcox, cornet, and Roger Steinebrey, trombone. Miss Ohler will be the piano accompanist for Todd, and Miriam Jenkins will act as accompanist for the other entrants.

The contest will open in the morning and continue throughout the day with students from 10 counties competing. Winners will compete in the state solo and ensemble contest to be held at Oberlin April 26 and 27.

J. Merton Holcombe, director of band music in the public schools, will accompany the students to Bellevue.

WHEEL STOLEN

ASHLAND—A wheel valued at $125 was stolen from a truck which had been parked here by Albert Corrigan of Wheeling, W. Va., it was reported by police.

Corrigan, driving a truck load of new cars decided to stay in Ashland for the night. When he went back to work the next morning the wheel was gone.

THEATERS

HOLLYWOOD JOTTINGS: John Farrow, husband of Maureen O'Sullivan and one of the top bracket directors who just completed "Bill of Divorcement," leaves immediately for military service in the English forces, going by way of Canada. His brother is also in service . . . "Strange Cargo," the Gable-Crawford picture which played here a couple of weeks ago, and Ginger Rogers' latest film, "Primrose Path," have been banned in Detroit. This is the first time in a long time that major productions, passed by the national and state boards, have been banned by municipal action. . . . The Nelson Eddys will have their first home when Nelson returns from his concert tour. They have been living with his mother in Beverly Hills. . . . "Mortal Storm" will be filmed with two endings. One will show the hero, James Stewart, killed, and the other will show him and Margaret Sullavan escaping the wrath of the Storm Troopers. It is a story of Germany today. . . .

Sensational Novel Filmed.

Next to "Gone With The Wind," the film version of John Steinbeck's sensational sociological novel, "Grapes of Wrath" has been the most talked-about and most eagerly awaited picture of the past 12 months. As a novel, it seemed impossible as a screen vehicle, but Darryl Zanuck ventured to film it and critics say the result is one of the most moving pictures of a decade. Shorn of its obscenity and profanity, there remained a tremendous document on one of America's greatest social problems. It deals with the migratory workers of California; the poverty-stricken sharecroppers who left the southern dust bowl to seek a living in the rich Californian country. Henry Fonda, John Carradine and Russell Simpson play the leading male roles, while Jane Darwell is seen as the heroic Ma Joad. The picture opens tomorrow at the Ohio.

* * *

Joan Turns Brunet.

Joan Bennett, looking more like Hedy Lamarr than Hedy herself, in her new black hair, plays the title role in "The Housekeeper's Daughter," a Madison feature for the week-end. Comedy, romance and an intriguing murder mystery are the elements stirred up for this movie dish. John Hubbard, a newcomer, William Gargan as a screwy newspaper man and Adolphe Menjou, head the cast. Of interest to Mansfielders who remember the presentation here a number of years ago of "No, No, Nannette" and other musical shows, is the appearance in the film of Johnny Hyams and Leila McIntyre, who played leads in the stage shows here. A second feature at the Madison tomorrow is Laurel and Hardy in "A Chump at Oxford."

* * *

Texas Cowboys.

"Cowboys From Texas" brings the Three Mesquiteers to the Ritz today and tomorrow. The personnel of the Mesquiteers change from picture to picture and this time the riding, shooting, fighting trio is made up of Bob Livingston, Raymond Hatton and Duncan Renaldo. "The Legion of Lost Flyers" is a story of daring aviators blazing an air trail over Alaska. Richard Arlen and Andy Devine head the cast.

* * *

The Mesquiteers Again.

An entirely different group of Three Mesquiteers are shown in "Red River Range," which is on the Park bill today and Saturday. John Wayne is starred and supported by Ray Corrigan and Max Terhune. This time the Mesquiteers ride to confound a band of cattle rustlers. Polly Moran, one-time team mate of the late Marie Dressler, plays a comedy role. "Wolf of Wall Street," with Edmund Lowe and Rose Hobart is also shown.

* * *

Two-Fisted Rangers.

Charles Starrett is the hero of "Two Fisted Rangers" and demonstrates how one straight-shooting, law abiding citizen can clean up a community and rid it of a mob of killers. Iris Meredith injects romance into the Western, current at the Majestic. Clifford Odets' successful stage play "Golden Boy," made one of the better movies of the year, with Barbara Stanwyck and a newcomer, William Holden.

ASHLAND—Members of the Ladies' Golf Association of the Ashland Country club will have a luncheon meeting at the club house Monday afternoon. After the business meeting, there will be games or bridge. Mrs. Paul Ganyard is chairman of the association.

Come Into The Kitchen! It's Modern

"Come into the kitchen!"

What a world of difference in the way that invitation was spoken when our busy grandmothers had unexpected callers—and the way you can joyfully offer it today! You will want to bring every guest—unexpected or invited—into the kitchen if yours is a bright, new all-electric kitchen.

We all like things that are beautiful—and modern, electric kitchens with simple lines and thrilling color schemes are not only rooms of charming beauty, but the cleanliness of flameless electric cookery keeps them that way.

Planned for Convenience.

Our kitchens must be equipped for three major tasks—the storage and preparation of food, the cooking and serving of that food, and the washing of dishes. To each of these tasks a "work center" is assigned. At each center the equipment is so arranged that the work can be carried on with utmost dispatch and ease. These planned centers are located in 1-2-3 order, so that the work flows in an orderly and efficient manner.

This sequence may be either in the form of the letter U (the most desirable plan) or in the form of an L, or in a straight line, along one wall. Of course this arrangement can always be modified when existing doors and windows are in the way.

First "Center"—Storage and Preparation.

The first work center is the one at which preparation of meals begins. It includes the electric refrigerator, where foods are scientifically preserved, because of safe, uniform temperatures, storage space for supplies not requiring cold storage, and for small equipment—and a convenient shelf or counter on which the housewife may prepare food as she takes it from storage.

Second "Center"—Cleaning and Dishwashing.

The cleaning and dishwashing center should be next—between the first center, where meals begin, and the third center, where they are cooked and served.

"Why should 'dishwashing' be located here?" you may ask. The reason is that you often need water from the sink in both preparation and cooking of meals. Also, soiled dishes accumulate from both preparation and cooking. If the dishwashing center is handy to both, you are saved unnecessary steps in disposing of these dishes.

The sink should be close to the refrigerator. This is important. While many perishables are placed directly in the refrigerator as they are received at the kitchen door, an equal number must be washed before they are stored.

Usually placed at a window, this cleaning and dishwashing center is a real work and time saver. Here, convenient to the plumbing connections, two irksome jobs are done the electric way. Joined to the sink is the electric dishwasher and kitchen waste exit. Soiled dishes try your patience and etch lines of toil on your hands. But no more when the electric dishwasher does them for you! Does them better—in less time!

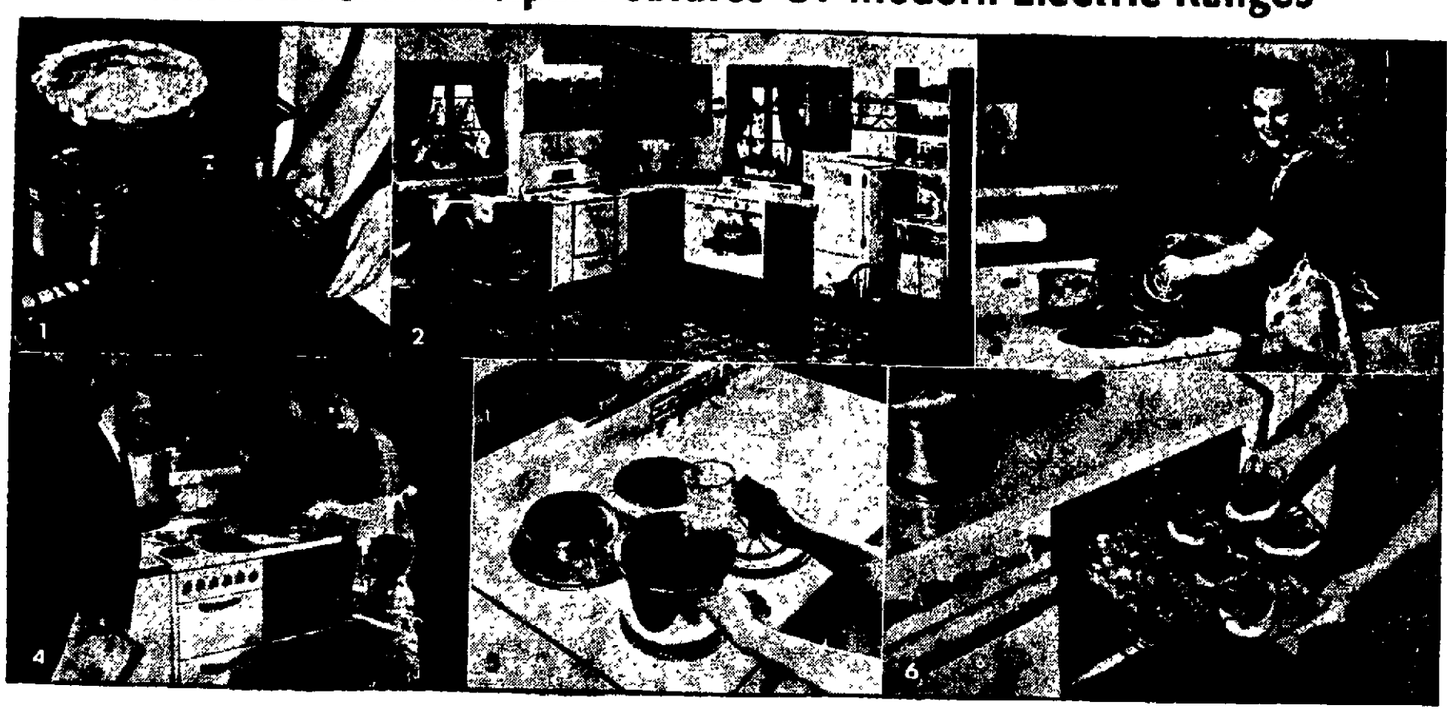
The other irksome kitchen task which modern electric kitchens do for you, is disposing of waste food. It's almost magic, but it's true! A Waste Exit, located at the drain in your sink disposes of food residue almost as fast as you can scrape it from the dishes.

All this happens at the turn of a switch! Think how many hours of real leisure would be yours if you had neither to wash dishes, nor watch over cooking food!

Third "Center"—Cooking and Serving.

Yes, you heard correctly. We did say "nor watch over cooking food." The cooking and serving center, placed next in line to the cleaning center, has as its most important unit the electric range—which will safely, automatically give food exactly the right amount of heat to cook it properly.

Here Are Six Principal Features Of Modern Electric Ranges



1. Automatic control. This lets you cook a whole oven meal without attention, gives you hours of freedom from kitchen duties.

2. Cleanliness. This modern electric kitchen is immaculate. There's no fuel as clean as electricity.

3. Low cost. Deep-well cookers, over meals, top of stove cookery, turn out low-cost meals that are real taste sensations. Hours of leisure, too!

4 Speed. Ovens heat in a jiffy—turn out perfect baking results. There are no failures when you bake with a constant temperature electric range.

5 Better-tasting food. More healthful food. Electric cooking is practically waterless cooking—preserves vitamins and vegetable salts.

6. Zestful new food combinations. Cooking is fun when you have an electric range in your home! Picture shows a complete meal ready to grill!

Tel-a-Cook Lights New Feature of G-E Ranges

Tel-A-Cook Lights in color is a new feature offered this year on the new General Electric electric ranges, handled in Mansfield by the Richland Electric company, 14 North Diamond street.

With this G-E feature, housewives are able to tell at a glance when the units are heating, which units are on, and in what cooking position. Each cooking unit, the oven and thrift-cooker have an indicating light, and each of the five cooking heats has an indicating color.

By looking at the lights you can tell at a glance what each unit is doing, and you know at a glance when you are using the right amount of heat. The shining colors are your warning signal, the chance of leaving the units on is minimized.

Every G-E range has 5-heat clean-speed Calrod units to meet your every cooking need from super speed to simmer, a hotter-high for quick starting, and a lower-low for economical cooking.

There have been 50 known eruptions of Mt. Vesuvius in Italy.

NAMED MANAGER

Indianapolis Man To Head Shoe Department At Maxwell's.

Arthur Hansen of Indianapolis, Ind., has been named manager of the R. B. Maxwell shoe department to fill the vacancy left by Robert Landon, who resigned some time ago because of ill health.

Hansen comes to Mansfield from the Wasson and Company store at Indianapolis and before that was with the Mandel Brothers in Chicago for a number of years. Edward Knackel will continue as a salesman in the department.

Hansen expects to move his wife and two children to the city May 1.

Here's Answer To Problem of Hurried Meal

Every housewife knows that feeling of dismay that confronts her when unexpected company arrives and the pantry is bare—or nearly so.

On the other hand if one keeps on hand the ingredients for a quick meal it is easy to meet the unexpected guest emergency with unruffled calm.

From a housekeeper who is noted among her friends for the poised efficiency with which she can provide an emergency menu comes the suggestion for a "hostess shelf" stocked with all of the necessities for a quick meal instead of the usual hit and miss collection of canned and packaged foods.

On this shelf she keeps three or four cans of a good grade of salmon, several cans of peas, corn, a couple of packages of potato chips, a dozen cans of milk, two or three cans of tomatoes, two cans each of peaches, apricots, pears and plums, a can of pimento, a box of sweet crackers and one of salted crackers, a box of gingerbread mix, a tin of marshmallows, and a reserve can of coffee.

From this she can quickly evolve a delicious three course menu consisting of cream of tomato soup with toasted crackers, baked salmon, green peas, Mexican corn, potato chips, and a fruit compote with hot gingerbread or sweet crackers topped with toasted marshmallows. There are any number of menu combinations one may work out for herself, but the important thing is to have on hand at all times the necessary foodstuffs to put the menus together.

Switches On Ward Range Out of Reach Of Tiny Fingers

Young adventurers who roam the kitchen will find the switches on the new Ward electric range on the backguard, far beyond the reach of their exploring fingers.

This is one of the features incorporated in the new models now on display at the Montgomery Ward and company store.

In any cooking operation from boiling water to warming the baby's bottle the Ward electric range uses only the current actually needed. One unit has five heat adjustments, all the others three. And on economy cooker models there is a choice of 12 different speeds.

The sanitary one-piece top is acid resisting and finished in easy-to-clean porcelain. It is equipped with the newest Chromalox top-units whose solid metal tops are immune to dropped pans and spill-overs.

Plans Kitchens

Home owners planning to remodel their kitchens or those building new homes are offered the services of the kitchen planning department of the Ohio Public Service company. Ross A. Warden, (above) head of the department says. The modern electric kitchen is planned to save both time and steps for the housewife with provisions made in the layout for a dishwasher, range and refrigerator. Warden, who was trained at the Westinghouse plant in kitchen planning, and Mrs. Irene Oberlin, O. P. S. home economist, are in charge of demonstrations in the model kitchen installed on the company's sales floor on South Park street.

"I insist upon Wilson's because we like smoked ham, cooked at home. It has that distinctive "smoky" flavor, yet it's as sweet as a butternut—tender and succulent. To be sure I'm getting WILSON'S Certified Smoked Ham, I look for the Orange Wrapper."

BAKED HAM RECIPE

To bake, ham should be at room temperature. No parboiling necessary. Place in roaster, fat side up. Add 1 cup gingerale or water. Bake at 325° to 350° F., allowing 16 min. per pound. When cooked, peel off skin, score fat, dot with cloves and sprinkle with brown sugar. Return to oven (400° F.) until brown, basting occasionally. Allow 19 min. per pound for half a ham.

Dies Committee Rounds Up Red, Fascist Secretaries

LAUNCHES NEW DRIVE TO CURB SUBVERSIVES

Investigators Seize Records of Baltimore Communists, Order Two to Testify.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—A nationwide roundup of Communist and Fascist secretaries is underway by the Dies committee in a new, intensified drive against asserted subversive activities in this country, it was learned today.

In the first raid and seizure of the roundup, which will cover the whole nation, committee agents late yesterday captured records of the Communist party in Baltimore ,and subpoenaed two persons before the committee this morning.

Subpoenaed were Mrs. Dorothy Blumberg, wife of the district secretary of the party, and Sam Banks, said to be regional secretary of the young Communists league.

Records seized during the raid included lists believed to include names of all party members in the Baltimore-Washington area, and indicated that there has been a recent influx of Communists into the capital.

Disclosing for the first time that investigators are ready now to start serving subpoenas in half a dozen cities, committeemen said in each case the secretaries would be asked to produce membership rosters and financial statements.

If they refuse, they will face immediate contempt citations carrying possibility of one-year jail sentences, if they are convicted.

The two contempt citations already issued by the committee against James Hulse Dolsen and George Powers, Pittsburgh Communists, "are just a starter" according to present plans.

"The time has come for a showdown," Chairman Dies (D. Tex.,) declared. "We're going to smoke these fellows out. We know lots of them are acting as spies and agents for foreign governments, and we are going to get as much information about them as possible."

Committee members pointed out that the law provides immunity for everything except perjury in testimony before congressional committees. Thus, they said, witnesses may be required to answer questions under pain of contempt citations if they refuse.

Word of the round up came as the committee waited to hear from subpoenaed Clarence Hathaway, editor of the Communist newspaper Daily Worker. Hathaway, investigators said, was slated to appear before the committee yesterday but failed to appear. Dies indicated that if Hathaway failed to appear today, he will face a contempt citation.

The committee disclosed that Pittsburgh authorities have asked for a transcript of Dolsen's testimony, stating they wished to investigate the possibility of action against him for apparent discrepancies between what he told the committee and statements made in a WPA application.

Auditor Sends Out 'Duns' to Collect On 'Mileage Grab'

COLUMBUS —(INS)— Letters asking repayment to the state treasury of mileage fees collected during a five-months recess of the Ohio legislature were mailed today to 25 members of the 1936 senate by State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson.

One member of that senate who collected fees in the famous "mileage grab," Verner E. Metcalf, Marietta, has already presented Ferguson with a check for $194.40.

The sums which Ferguson asked of the senators ranged from $69 to $302, according to the distance supposed to have been traveled between their homes and Columbus for the non-existent legislative sessions. The amounts totaled $5,464.

When the injunction suit of Arnett Harbage, West Jefferson farmer and self-styled "watchdog of the Ohio treasury," reached the supreme court, that tribunal ruled that the senators were not entitled to the payments. The decision also blocked the payment of $21,507 in similar grants to members of the 1936 house of representatives.

FINGERPRINTS COST FREEDOM

Youth on Probation 11 Days, Linked With Other Burglary, Sentenced to O. S. R.

His fingerprints proved the undoing of Washington Carter, 24, colored, of Mansfield who was to be taken to the Mansfield reformatory today to begin a one-to-15-year sentence for breaking and entering.

Carter was sentenced yesterday afternoon by Common Pleas Judge C. H. Huston who revoked his probation that was granted only 11 days ago.

Carter apparently had kept out of trouble since he was placed on probation, but fingerprints obtained by Mansfield police linked him with another burglary that he denied when taken into court March 18.

Confronted with the evidence yesterday, Carter admitted four burglaries in addition to the one for which he had been indicted. He said he had broken into the J. B. Miller night club, 90 Orange street, where the fingerprints were obtained; the DeLuxe restaurant, 29 East Fourth street; Steve's restaurant on East Sixth street, and a filling station on Park avenue east.

Believing Carter to be a first offender and involved in only one offense, Judge Huston placed him on probation when he pleaded guilty to an indictment returned by the grand jury.

Carter was taken into custody several weeks ago after his capture while attempting to burglarize the John Urdia tavern on Bowman street. Urdia, laying in wait for the burglar who had broken into his place several times, knocked Carter unconscious with a black jack and tied him up. The indictment and probation followed.

SUCCUMBS ON 87TH BIRTHDAY

Frank Clawson, Richland Native, Dies In Olmstead Falls.

SHILOH—Death came to Frank A. Clawson, native of Rome, on his 87th birthday anniversary. He died last night at the home of his daughter, Mrs. G. C. Imhoff in Olmstead Falls after a short illness.

Born March 28, 1853, Mr. Clawson was well known in this section of the county. In addition to his daughter, he is survived by a son, Arthur, of Ganges, and four grandchildren.

His body was returned to the McQuate funeral home where it will remain until noon Sunday. Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Sunday at the Ganges Reformed church, with Rev. Frank Zartman officiating. Burial will be in Nineveh cemetery.

BUSINESSMEN GO OVER NATION'S PROBLEMS WITH OHIO'S SOLONS

With two Mansfield representatives among them, Ohio businessmen, big and little, got their congressmen together today to go over the nation's problems at Washington.

They came from all sections of the state to impress on the legislators their contention that Uncle Sam was a good umpire for business but no so good as a director.

This will be the subject of the keynote address by F. C. Crawford of Cleveland at a dinner meeting tonight.

The Mansfielders in the delegation are John G. Routzon, secretary-manager of the Chamber of Commerce, and John W. Graham, general manager of the News-Journal and director of the Ohio Chamber of Commerce.

During the day, the Buckeye travelers looked over capital sites and talked with representatives and senators about legislation affecting labor, industry and commerce.

The group wanted specifically to win the support of Ohio congressmen for a three-point program to slacken federal spending, for a uniform procedure for federal agencies and make their orders reviewable by courts, and to amend the national labor relations act.

Scores of businessmen were on hand for the conference, the third annual meeting. It was arranged by the Ohio Chamber of Commerce and local chambers in the state.

"Our sole object," said A. Graves Williams, president of the Ohio chamber, "is to assist in making this world a better place to live in. We are not asking for special privileges. We are asking for action which will be beneficial to the world as a whole.

"It is only by such means as this and through businessmen taking time to come to Washington that we may emphasize our viewpoint upon vital national legislation affecting business and industry."

OUTLINES CCC

State Conservationist Tells of Work Against Erosion.

Fifty Richland county farm leaders heard an outline of the work of CCC soil conservation camps and the government erosion control program last night at a meeting at the courthouse.

H. E. Hecker, assistant state soil conservationist, discussed the place the CCC camp holds in the federal program in Ohio and the nation.

County Agent George B. Ganyard presided at the session and headed a discussion of erosion problems.

A movie film showing the effects of erosion and practices to combat it in Stark county was shown by O. R. Keyser, Stark county agricultural agent.

Ganyard said the meeting was designed primarily to provide information for Richland county farmers who will probably have access to a CCC camp within the next few months. Plans to establish a camp in the county have been approved at Washington.

PROBERS TOLD STATE, INMATE MONEY STOLEN

Prosecutor Gets Report Which Shows $1,200 Missing From Prison Commissary.

(By Associated Press)

LONDON—A story of money shortages and theft of state and prisoner funds by convicts at the London prison farm was being investigated today by County Prosecutor D. H. Jackman.

Supt. W. F. Amrine turned over to him a state examiner's report listing a shortage of $1,200 in the prison farm commissary fund.

Amrine said he also submitted evidence of padded pay rolls and embezzlement of state and prisoners' funds by other prisoners.

State examiners have been investigating the institution's books since Amrine took charge last September, and the inquiry is yet to be completed.

Amrine said that one prisoner who had been paroled, confessed taking money from other convicts' accounts by manipulation of records, and that his parole had been revoked.

Instances also were found, he said, in which visitors left money for prisoners who never received it.

The superintendent added that all the evidence would be given to the county grand jury.

At the same time he reported he had found scores of instances in which records had been tampered with, and said he believed numerous persons had been paroled who should not have been released.

Prisoners with access to records removed unfavorable conduct reports which were being preserved for the pardon and parole commission's consideration Amrine said.

After taking charge of the institution and reorganizing the records department, Amrine found concealed 100 slips with notations on conduct which had been removed from prisoners' record files.

The investigation of financial records was prompted in part, he said, by paroled prisoners complaining to the welfare department that they did not receive the full amounts to which they claimed they were entitled.

Findings of the state examiners caused officials to revoke the parole of Thad D. Plummer, 44, of Putnam county, who was released last June 1 after serving a term for robbery. He was returned to the prison farm last Saturday.

Plummer, who had been employed in the chief clerk's office, opened a restaurant in Lima after leaving prison, Amrine said.

BIT CONFUSING

Lawnview Taken for Longview, Want Name Changed.

Residents out Lawnview way want the name of their street changed.

They claim they have been experiencing no little trouble over the similarity of the name of the street with Longview avenue and they are going to ask city council to change the name to Taylor road.

O. A. Strong, 250 Lawnview avenue, one of the property owners, obtained a petition at the city building yesterday which he said he will present to council Tuesday night.

Strong said several of the residents on the street between Maple street and Cline avenue had asked about the change and that he hoped to get 100 per cent of the property owners to sign the request.

He added that residents have had trouble with getting their mail and other deliveries due to the similarity of the names of the two streets.

INJURY CLAIMS FILED BY 223

Richland Workers Lose 7,262 Days Due To February Accidents.

Industrial workers in Richland county filed 223 personal injury claims with the Ohio Industrial commission in February, including one for fatal injuries, the commissioner's report showed today.

Forty of the claims were for more than seven days lost time, 22 for seven days or less, and 160 were medical only cases. Total time lost by county workers as the result of injuries was 7,262 days.

There were 53 fatalities in industry in Ohio during the month, eight less than in January. Claims filed totaled 15,624, about 3,000 less than in January.

HORSE KICK FATAL

LEBANON —(AP)— Coroner H. M. Williams said Horace Rudduck, 35, found dead in a field on his farm near Clarksville, apparently had been kicked by a horse. An autopsy was set today.

The Voice of BROADWAY

—By DOROTHY KILGALLEN

You Meet Such Interesting People.
(And It's the Little Things You Remember.)

A reporter's memory has nothing to do with the notes scribbled on the back of an envelope, or scrawled on copy paper, or inscribed, neatly in some stage-prop notebook. Reporters are bad at places and dates and sometimes when a month has gone by they forget the quote that made a headline or the story that made page one—but the name of a headline personality always makes the memory flicker.

You see a face over a nightclub table, hear a voice coming through a microphone, turn the page of a newspaper and come upon a picture. . . . And it's the little things you remember. Things like this:

* * *

Ginger Rogers buys dozens of $30 hats at one time, then wears 25-cent net turbans to keep her hair fly flying north when she's flying south in her open roadster. . . . Annabella always puts her head or her arm on Tyrone Power's shoulder when they're out watching a floor show.

Bea Lillie, who always looks like something out of a Noel Coward drawing room, drinks beer like an extra in a Shubert operetta. . . . All Rudy Vallee's girls look alike; they all have long bobs, long eyelashes, and short tempers, and they all look like Alice Faye.

* * *

The Duchess of Kent when she's in a cross mood, talks out of the side of her mouth like Edward G. Robinson. . . . Eddy Duchin doesn't trust himself to match a tie to a shirt, so he buys nothing but black ties.

* * *

Bing Crosby is more temperamental than Rosa Ponselle. . . . Bette Davis wants to retire to a farm. . . . Brenda Frazier's idea of fun is taking her shoes off and napping. Most girls' idea of fun is being Brenda Frazier. . . . Arturo Toscanini takes more shower baths than a football player. . . . Virginia Bruce is prettier than any picture you ever saw of her.

* * *

W. C. Fields always wears a camel's hair coat when he's making a picture, no matter how hot the weather. He says it's because he's afraid of drafts—but some observers have figured out that the big patch pockets neatly hide a pint of sherry, or what will you have.

Marlene Dietrich's shoes never look like the shoes all the other girls are wearing, and sometimes they look like the slippers your mother wore in 1914. . . .

Ruben Mamoulin has a killer-diller's charm. He can make a Macy's salesgirl feel like a countess just by the way he asks her to sit down.

* * *

Loretta Young looks happiest when surrounded by from two to five male escorts, most of them calling her "Gretchen." . . . Most masters of ceremony (Milton Berle, Jay C. Flippen, etc.) wear long hair because they use it as a prop to illustrate gags. The m. c.'s who haven't got enough hair work up a routine kidding their baldness.

Greta Garbo sleeps in striped pajamas she buys in the gents' furnishings departments.

Jane Pickens illustrates her letters with little pencil sketches, mostly of Jane. . . . Robert Taylor and Franchot Tone aren't very good dancers, but no girl ever complained.

* * *

Peggy Hopkins Joyce is serious when she says she doesn't like orchids. She'd rather have emeralds . . . Edward Arnold was so fascinated by the biography he "wrote" recently, he read it through five times . . . Edgar Bergen cooks as well as Charlie McCarthy talks.

Lily Pons wraps scarves and mufflers around her neck and chest in the daytime, and positively nothing at night . . . Champion apple-eater of the West Coast is Brenda Joyce, who has an apple in her hand oftener than Tom Sawyer. Twelve a day is nothing.

* * *

Katharine Hepburn hates her freckles, but when she went to a skin specialist recently he refused to take them off because he claimed they were "beautiful" . . . Russell Swann is the only "magician" I ever met who doesn't take his art as seriously as a tea room swami . . . When Boris Karloff, the horror, and Bela Lugosi, the terror, get together for a jam session, they jive about — their babies!

* * *

Paulette Goddard's streamlined chassis might be a result of hours of athletics—she bowls, fences, plays tennis, swims, and breaks 90 regularly on a tough golf course.

Joan Crawford, in a Schiaparelli evening dress, has a bigger inferiority complex than a 15-year-old wallflower at her first dance . . . Paul Draper has no compunction about wearing a green plaid suit.

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—The scene in "Tom Brown's School Days" was completed and Sir Cedric Hardwicke and Josephine Hutchinson were "holding it for a still."

"Will you smile, Sir Cedric?" asked Freddie, the still man.

Sir Cedric laughed. "I'm grinning like a Cheshire, and you ask me to smile!" With that, he used the tips of his forefingers to distend his lips, and struck a pose.

It was rather shocking, however amusing. To me, I mean. Maybe to others, too, but I should know better. I should know that actors aren't the people they are in pictures and plays. I shouldn't feel, watching Sir Cedric, that I am watching an austere, aloof, religious gentleman. That he was in the play "Shadow and Substance." That he has been in most of his films—a reverend fellow in whom prankishness is unbecoming.

But Sir Cedric himself assures me that the mantle of holiness was placed on his shoulders in America, that actually he is anything but an ascetic—and this despite his success in priestly and supernatural roles (like Mr. Brink in "On Borrowed Time.") He will remind you, too, that he has been happy in assorted villainies, as in "The Hunchback of Notre Dame," in "Becky Sharp," in "The Invisible Man Returns."

Still one feels that one should doff one's hat and ask a blessing.

* * *

Actually, of course, Sir Cedric is a thoroughly human, amiable chap, neither saintly nor villainous. Once, when he was new here, his title caused no end of confusion. Many an underling, addressing him as "Mr. Hardwicke," retreated with red face, uncertain as to the etiquette of addressing an English knight.

Sir Cedric is a Shakespearean at heart, an actor of modern roles because the demand for Shakespeare is not what it was. When he was 12 years old, he engineered a neighborhood production of "The Merchant of Venice" to tragi-comic failure. At 14 he put on a "Hamlet" which persuaded his doctor father to permit him the pursuit of drama. It was Shakespearean drama—with the Benson company in South African tours—that gave him his first professional experience. After distinguished service in the war, Sir Cedric returned to the theater in 1921 — not, however, to Shakespeare. Times had changed.

* * *

He has an interesting theory that the old-time Shakespearean stars, if alive today, would make political dictators. Bosses of their careers, dominating the theater, playing power-mad kings and emperors, they had good training for one-man rule.

"Today, the actor is but the playwright's tool," Sir Cedric, one of the best, maintains. "The once-bare stage is filled with scenery. It is no longer the actor's work to paint that scenery with words, to exercise the audience's imagination. It is in keeping with the times—little is left to the imagination. . . ."

But I don't see him weeping over it all.
